JAPAN TEAM WILL HUNT 'ABOMINABLE SNOWMAN'

TOKYO (UPI) — A six-man Japanese expedition will leave here Nov. 6 for Nepal to search for the "abominable snowman" of the Himalayas. Its sponsors, the Nippon Educational Television Broadcasting Co., and the Mainichi Television Broadcasting Corp., announced at a news conference Wednesday night, that the expedition will conduct a two-month probe for the snowman along the western slopes of Mt. Everest.

The team will be headed by Dr. Teizo Ogawa, professor of medicine at Tokyo University medical department.

Pre-Summit Meet Set for Dec. 15

PARIS (Reuters) — The Western summit conference will be held in Paris "about Dec. 15," Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville announced today.

President Eisenhower announced in Washington Wednesday that he and the heads of the British, French and West German governments were set for a meeting in mid-December, but that the place was not settled.

The meeting of the Western Big Four is designed to prepare for a subsequent East-West summit meeting.

Couve de Murville also told the National Assembly foreign affairs commission that Premier Khrushchev will come to Paris during the first three months of 1960.

He would spend "several days" in Paris and "several days" in the French provinces.

Premier Michel Debre has said that the East-West summit conference will take place after this visit, "doubtless during the course of next spring."

U.S. Firm Buys Iron From Russia

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A shipment of 370 tons of Russian-made pig iron has been in the Black River yards of the Canadian National Railways here since Sunday, a railroad spokesman says.

The eight carloads of material was shipped here by rail from Montreal, the spokesman said. According to customs records, the consignee is Primary Industries Corporation of New York City.

In Washington Wednesday, Senator Vance Hartke (Dem., Ind.) said he was shocked to learn that pig iron made in Russia had been shipped to the United States during the steel strike. He said the commerce department reported that it was delivered for $49.25 a ton in Buffalo, compared with $66 a ton for domestic pig iron.

ARMY CANCELS LACROSSE MISSILE PLAN

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian army has pigeon-holed plans to acquire the American Lacrosse surface-to-surface guided missile, it was learned today.

One informant said the army probably will never order the weapon.

The Lacrosse would have provided the atomic punch for the Canadian Infantry Brigade group in Europe. It delivers atomic or conventional warhead.

No reason was immediately given for the army's suspension of its plans to acquire the Lacrosse, which would have been its first missile.

Invitation To Adenauer

BERLIN (Reuters) — Walter Ulbricht, East German Communist party leader, today invited West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer to visit East Germany.

Ulbricht was speaking on the fourth day of the East German trade union federation congress.

At the same time as Adenauer visited East Germany, he suggested, East German premier Otto Grotewohl could visit West Germany.

'Same Old Soviet Talk'

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — Nationalist China said today Russia's position on inspection and control of disarmament is the same as it has been for 14 years of talks which have resulted only in deadlock.

Dr. H. R. Wei, veteran Chinese expert on disarmament and nuclear questions, expressed doubt about Russia's intentions despite the sponsorship by all 82 members of the United Nations of a resolution which would send all arms reduction plans to next year's 10-power Geneva talks without endorsing any.

Jack Frost Appears Throughout District

"Anti-freeze weather nipped here and there at Victoria overnight, with the 'lowest of the low' a chilly 29 degrees in the Tillicum area, weatherman William Mackie said today.

This is the lowest temperature to be recorded here to date this fall. Frost was reported in many areas.

An official downtown thermometer recorded a minimum of 36 degrees, Mr. Mackie said, and the lowest at Gonzales Observatory was 41 degrees.

"Temperatures will be much the same again tonight," Mr. Mackie said.

Skies will be partly cloudy tonight, he said, and there will be increasing cloud Friday morning from a weather disturbance expected to cross the northern coast of the province. Winds will be light.

$240 Million For Rocket?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dr. Wernher von Braun said today he wants $240,000,000 for the Saturn super rocket program next year—$100,000,000 more than the defence department has recommended.

This would be nearly three and a half times the $70,000,000 appropriated by Congress for the Saturn which is to pack more than twice the power of the biggest rocket fired by the Russians thus far.

Death Toll Passes 400 In Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A radio message from the state of Colima today said at least 300 persons are reported to have died as a result of hurricane and flood in the town of Minatitlan.

The message, picked up here by an amateur radio reporter, was addressed to Mexico's president by Dr. Rafael Chavez Carrillo, brother of Colima's governor. Minatitlan is an inland city of about 10,000 population.

Added to those who lost their lives in west coast regions of Colima and Jalisco states, counted earlier at nearly 100, the loss of life assumes the proportions of one of this country's worst natural disasters of modern times.

In Tecoman, 12 miles from the coast, 16 persons were reported dead and 4,000 homeless.

The radio message pleaded for food and medicine, but the region still is cut off from land transportation, air fields are flooded and the only present means of communication is radio. Some emergency fields were in limited use by planes.

Air rescue operations continued around the clock today in an effort to reach hundreds of families driven from their homes by rain-swollen rivers that jumped their banks and poured through dozens of small villages.

RELIEF CUT OFF

The rivers knocked out communications and flooded roads, hindering the movement of military convoys carrying food, medicine and clothing.

President Adolfo Lopez Mateos took personal charge of relief operations.

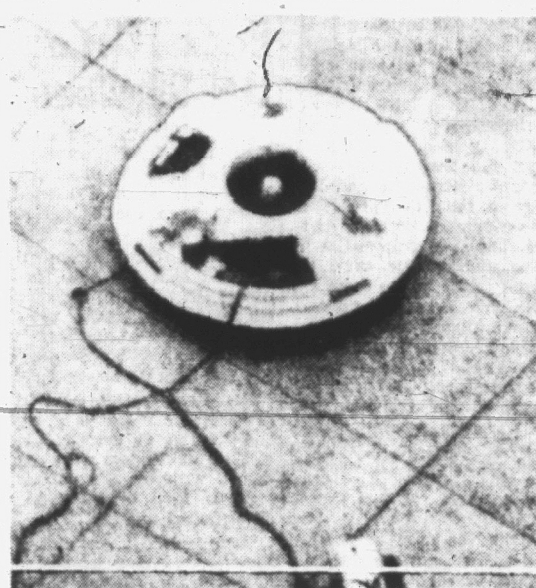

The Pacific port of Manzanillo, which took the full force of the hurricane, reported 80 known fatalities. At least 100 residents were reported missing and 500 injured.

Four small Mexican freighters were reported sunk at Manzanillo. There also was a report indicating that the 800-ton freighter Sinaloa, which left Manzanillo Monday for Acapulco, had gone down at sea. The report said 12 men were rescued but 17 still were missing.

18 ABOARD CRASHED AIRLINER

ATHENS (Reuters) — A Greek airliner with 18 persons aboard crashed today near Tanagra, north of Athens.

First reports said police had found wreckage of the plane. Unconfirmed reports said there were no survivors.

Cameraman Snaps 'Flying Saucer'

TORONTO (CP) — The CBC Wednesday broadcast pictures of what it said was A. V. Roe's revolutionary "flying saucer" being developed for the United States Army.

The pictures, taken from a banking aircraft, showed a bright-colored, disc-shaped vehicle with what appeared to be a driver's seat in the center. It was attached to a long cable or rope.

The pictures were taken by Jack Judges, flying freelance photographer who snapped them as the machine lay on the ground inside Avro property at suburban Malton, CBC reporter Earl Garrety flew with Judges.

He described the machine as "attached to a long cable or rope. Its surface appeared made of aluminum."

Sir Roy Dobson, chairman of the board of Roe, and other high company officials, said they had no comment on the filming.

The pictures were taken shortly after Sir Roy reported that the machine—called the Avrocar and described as a wingless aircraft—had undergone a successful tethered flight.

"The craft is in an advanced stage of testing," Sir Roy said. "It has been hovering with tethers on it for some time now and the time is not far away when it will be hovering free."

The Avrocar is a form of vertical take-off and landing craft. It is believed to have a much higher speed than most air-land vehicles under development which operate on a "cushion" of air.

The project was taken over by the Americans in 1954 after the federal Liberal government withdrew support.

Old Shed Yields Fortune in Art

LONDON (AP) — Five grime-covered paintings found in a ramshackle shed in Ireland were declared today to be old masters worth more than $1,000,000. The paintings, said London art expert David Carritt, are by the 18th-century artist Francesco Guardi.

Carritt and Geoffrey Merton, son of the treasurer of the Royal Art Society and brother of artist John Merton, called the canvases one of the greatest artistic finds of the century.

"I would estimate," said Carritt, "that these pictures sold together might fetch more than £500,000."

But Carritt thinks it's impossible to assess their value adequately as "nothing comparable with them has ever been on the market."

FROM IRISH MANSION

"They had apparently been brought from an Irish mansion, where they had been taken at the beginning of the 19th century by a nobleman newly returned from a tour of the continent," Carritt said.

The pictures were painstakingly stripped of two centuries of varnish and restored. Guardi, who lived from 1712 to 1793, excelled at Venetian paintings. The five discovered in Dublin are believed to be illustrations of the 16th-century Italian epic poem by Torquato Tasso, Jerusalem Liberated.

WIRE BRIEFS

Steel Talks Resume

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Direct talks between union and management in the 107-day steel strike resumed here today with court action and federal mediation at a standoff until Monday.

Man Hunted In Mine

FLIN FLON, Man. (CP) — Miners dug through loose ore today in the search for a man missing since Wednesday night at the 2,200-foot level of the Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Company mine. Edward E. Martin, 48, was caught by a rush of ore while he was loading cars.

Atlas ICBM Tested

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — An atlas intercontinental ballistic missile was successfully test launched "less than full range" down the Atlantic today. It was America's fourth missile test success in less than 18 hours.

Senator Under Fire

PARIS (Reuters) — Justice Minister Edmond Michelet today asked the senate to lift the parliamentary immunity of Senator Francois Mitterand, whose car was machine-gunned in a Paris street Oct. 16. The charge has been made that Mitterand, a supporter of self-determination for Algeria, faked the assassination attempt.

'Definite Plan' Says Scurrell

A new $1,000,000 RCMP provincial headquarters building will be built in Victoria.

Mayor Percy Scurrell today said he learned that "a definite commitment has been made" to build the headquarters on the waterfront just inside the Victoria-Esquamalt border.

Proposed site is at the foot of Barnard Avenue, the border between the two municipalities.

The mayor was back at his office today after leading a delegation to Ottawa which went the rounds of cabinet ministers and senior officials in an effort to get a $3,000,000 ship contract awarded to west coast yards.

COMMITMENT MADE

"We have it on good authority that the RCMP provincial headquarters project definitely is going ahead and is in the process of being finalized."

"Those headquarters buildings all run in the neighborhood of $1,000,000 in cost."

"I don't know when construction will begin—but I know a definite commitment has been made and the plans are being finalized."

The present headquarters command of B.C.'s "E" division occupies four floors of the Windermere Hotel on Courtney near Douglas.

FORCED TO MOVE

The building has been sold and the RCMP lease expires soon.

The provincial headquarters command and the Victoria subdivision headquarters, which supervise Vancouver Island RCMP operations, will occupy the new building.

But the Victoria detachment, now located on a building opposite Christ Church Cathedral, will be moved into the proposed new Court House when its present location is demolished.

The new headquarters establishment will include a dock for RCMP patrol boat and seaplane use but the force's maritime command will remain based in Esquamalt harbor.

RCMP Supt. B. C. Macdonell, head of "E" division, said Mayor Scurrell's information was "well founded but no official notification of acceptance of the terms for the property has yet been received" from Ottawa.

CO-OPERATIVE NUCLEAR TESTS BRITAIN PLAN

LONDON (AP) — Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd proposed today that the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union jointly conduct a new series of underground nuclear explosions.

The purpose of such a co-operative effort would be to find the answer on how to control underground blasts, he told the House of Commons.

He said an agreement for a partial ban on nuclear tests would relieve world fears of the health hazard from radioactive fallout.

Every Square Inch Counts

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

OSAKA—The miracle of Japan—more than ninety million people living on a few small islands and living better every year—becomes understandable for the first time when you see the countryside.

Only 15 per cent of the land can be cultivated but every square inch counts and the millions of two-acre farms produce some 80 per cent of the nation's food. This is not farming at all, as we know it on the broad plains of America; it is gardening and every minute farm is a garden without a single weed.

Hutchison

for the luxury trade of the cities and tea in neat, rounded hedges climbing to the ragged range of the Japan Alps.

Tourist Boom

Of this agricultural economy, the true base of Japanese civilization, I shall have more to say later, but at the moment I am caught up in the Japanese tourist boom which is probably the largest human migration in Asia since the time of Genghis Khan.

The Japanese railways, no doubt the best in the world, the most luxurious and running on time to the second, are crammed with tourists. The roads are crammed with buses and private cars, the tourist towns of the coast and mountains reel under the burden of a gigantic new industry.

Every Japanese apparently is determined to see his nation after centuries of provincial living and there is much to see—a variety of scenery impossible to imagine in such a small space.

Service De Luxe

During the last few days the Japanese government, the world's best host, has taken me through mountain gorges measureless to man, by cable car across yawning canyons, among tawny hills reminiscent of Alberta or the Cariboo, and around the veined, blue pinacle of Mount Fuji whose color and shape seem to change every hour.

When the western world discovers the beauty of Japan, the superb hotels (a maid for every room, slippers and kimono laid out for the guest, tea and cakes in endless procession, dining rooms of dazzling magnificence) and the friendly people, the native migration will be swelled by millions of foreigners.

Meanwhile the Japanese are seeing their country for themselves. At every beauty spot buses discharge the city workers in their best western clothes, hordes of school children all scrubbed, shiny and well-disciplined under their teachers and among them a few bewildered but happy Americans.

This is more than travel. It is worship—worship of the land, of the nation's history, of Japan's miracle, of Mount Fuji, that native Olympus which is less a mountain than a sacrament.

Co-operative Plan

But everywhere the farmers, their wives and, after school hours, the children—some 40 million of them altogether—are cutting the rice with sickles, hanging it on bamboo fences to dry or threshing it with tiny portable machines, owned co-operatively by a dozen families.

The fields fairly swarm with people, since agriculture remains primarily a hand industry in which large-scale machines cannot be used. As the trains go by—a train every five minutes on the Tokyo-Osaka line which must carry the heaviest traffic in the world—the farmers under their umbrella-like straw hats never look up from the earth.

Only Graves Unused

They are used to the industrial revolution beside them. They cultivate their ancestral soil to the edge of the cities, to the walls of the gigantic industries, leaving no possible foot of it unused, except for the ancient graveyards and their little shrines, each shaded by a clump of twisted trees.

At harvest time the rice land, fenceless but divided by narrow ditches and dykes, is a drab brown carpet, but the Japanese farmer knows how to grow many other crops. He grows apples and pears far superior to our best Canadian fruit, oranges, grapes, vegetables of every sort, chrysanthemums

SOCIETY REWARDED

Local Singers Pass Acid Test

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Value of Victoria Musical Art Society's policy of providing an appropriate showcase for top-ranking city musicians was emphasized in the season's opening recital Wednesday night at Hollywood House.

It was a happy experience and a keenly interesting one, to hear two such singers as Ruth Champion and John Dunbar in a full program, quality and range of which provided them with so much more than the usual scope.

For the capacity audience it presented an opportunity to assess these artists in all dimensions; let it be said immediately that they came off well in all.

To start with, both singers have engaging personalities. Winsome Ruth Champion is a delight to watch as well as hear and "Jock" Dunbar's easy geniality is a highlight wherever he sings.

SKILLED ACCOMPANIST

Partnered by a most musician and skilled pianist in Richard Frouman, both singers chose some lieder—the acid test of interpretive ability. In addition, Mr. Dunbar sang two Handel arias and Mrs. Champion one from "Traviata."

Highlights of the modern section of the program were the soprano number, Bishop's "Lo, Hear the Gentle Lark," in which the flexibility and clear, pure tone of Mrs. Champion's voice rivalled and echoed the flute obligato played by Maurice Crawford, and Dunbar's vivid interpretation of Quilter's "Three Songs of the Sea."

With both singers, a continual progress toward an ever fuller technique and musical comprehension was a notable feature of the evening, in itself a tribute to their artistry.

Mrs. Champion's powerful, bell-like voice is used with discretion and much nuance. This was particularly outstanding in the aria, "Ah, fors'è lui."

The virile resonance of Dunbar's fine baritone and his Gaelic instinct for epic poetry made of Schumann's "Two Grenadiers" a vivid moment of sung drama.

Slipping out of their serious roles, the two artists sparkled with happy aplomb and even happier vocal blending, through two operetta duets by Romberg and Herbert.

Benefit Show

A benefit show will be held in Duncan Sunday at 1 p.m. in the Uplands grounds at Queen Margaret's School. Proceeds from a collection will go to aid Victoria horseman Gordon Shea, who was injured at a show in September.

Gymkhana events including musical sacks and a potato race will be presented on the afternoon program, as well as jumping, English and western pleasure and western pairs classes.

Hydro Chief Ends 10-Year UN Service

B.C. Power Commission chief Dr. Hugh Keenleyside flies back to Victoria from New York Friday, officially retired from the United Nations service.

His departure from the post he held 10 years, head of the UN technical assistance administration, was to be marked with a luncheon today, arranged by Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld.

Dr. Keenleyside held the rank of undersecretary, second highest in the UN. Recently his duties were concerned with the loan of civil servants to countries in need of technical aid.

The power commission chairman is now in position to devote himself full time to the B.C. power development post to which he was appointed last spring.

Bomb Threat Halts Callas Performance

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A bomb hoax interrupted a Maria Callas opera concert for 40 minutes Wednesday night but the tempestuous soprano brushed it off as "ridiculous."

Former president and Mrs. Harry S. Truman were among the 3,573 persons in Midland Theatre when Missouri's Governor James T. Blair stepped on stage after Mme. Callas' first number and announced:

"Ladies and gentlemen, the management has received a call which indicates danger for this audience, so we are asking you to leave this building for a half-hour."

The audience calmly walked out, taking 10 minutes to clear the building, while the police swarmed through the downtown theatre.

Mme. Callas remained in her dressing room during the search and joked about the scare. The concert was finished without incident after the audience returned.

One theatre patron jokingly said: "I think the bartender across the street made that call. Everyone went over there and he must have made a million dollars."

The mariner's compass, a circular card marked with points of direction, is said to have originated in Italy about 1300.

U.S. Union Leader Attacked by Soviets

MOSCOW (UPI)—The newspaper Trud published a full page article today attacking Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers Union.

The attack was the latest in a series on Reuther by the Russian press and radio since he and other American labor leaders debated with Premier Khrushchev during the premier's recent visit to San Francisco. Trud is the official organ of the Russian trade unions.

Today's article included statements from four persons, one an unidentified woman who claimed Reuther married her in 1934 in the Soviet Union, but abandoned her and returned to the United States.

(In Detroit today, Reuther said the charges are "based upon complete fabrication and falsehood.")

Reuther said he has been a principal target for Communist attack and that "this latest attack is another such propaganda effort.")

Plan to Police B.C. Teaching Ability Hailed

A long-standing sore point between teachers and school trustees everywhere may be eliminated in B.C. by a proposed plan that would enable the teaching profession to police its own members.

The plan is designed to "guarantee the competence of B.C. teachers," said B.C. Gillie today. Principal of S. J. Willis Junior High School, he headed a B.C. Teachers' Federation committee that evolved the plan after a year-long study.

This might be a significant step towards professionalism for teachers," was the first impression of Victoria school trustee R. H. Reeve, a past president of the B.C. School Trustees' Association.

Harold N. Parrott, Belmont High School teacher who was president of the teachers' federation when the special executive committee study was organized, gave his personal endorsement to the plan.

SENT TO ALL

The plan has been sent out to all B.C. teachers for study and a decision on adoption probably will be made at the annual convention in Vancouver this Easter.

The plan would virtually abolish seniority as a criterion of advancement in the teaching profession, substituting a classification by competence and experience.

The classifications would be

Kathy Crosby Sued After Car Accident

LOS ANGELES (AP).—Kathy Crosby's wife, actress Kathy Grant, is accused of negligent driving in a $50,000 damage suit filed by a retired businessman. Herman S. Magad, 60, charges that Miss Grant's auto struck a car in which he was riding last Nov. 12 in Hollywood.

made by a special board of the teachers' federation, assisted by reports of school superintendents and principals on each teacher seeking a higher rating.

Three classifications would be created: instructor, teacher and professional teacher.

All newcomers to the profession would automatically be classified as instructors for at least two years. They would have to prove they had earned the right to step up before being classified as teachers.

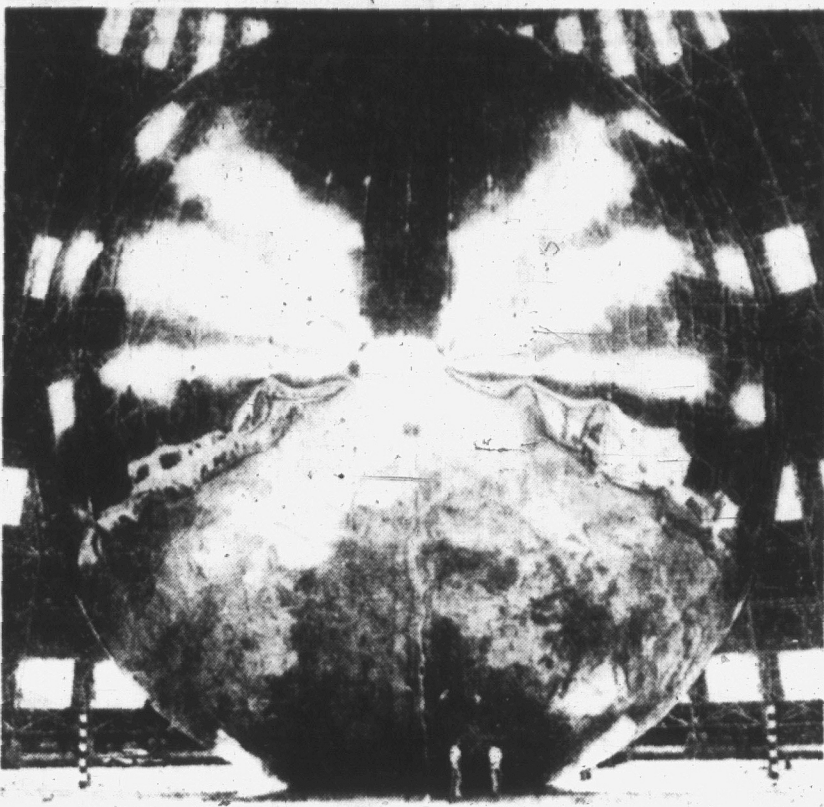

A teacher would have to have a degree and five years' experience before applying for reclassification into the professional teacher category. The federation board also would judge the applicant on general competence.

Mr. Parrott said general reaction of teachers to the plan still is unknown.

"I think we have something here for solving the problem of charges that some teachers are not competent," he said. "We feel these matters dealing with the profession should be dealt by ourselves just as most other professional groups, doctors, engineers and lawyers deal with their own problems."

Trustee Reeve said he was "gratified" that the teachers apparently had accepted the principle of merit pay first proposed by trustees. He said he welcomed the intention to make teachers true professional people.

"But I can see grave difficulties ahead if the federation insists on having sole authority over establishing a teacher's qualifications. Surely the employers should have some say."

Men appear dwarfed as space balloon undergoes test.

Millions Startled by Space Balloon

WASHINGTON (AP).—The United States has a new entry in the space derby—a balloon as big as a 10-storey building inflated 250 miles above the earth.

The first space balloon launching Wednesday at Wallops Island, Va., was a smashing success. Not only did the balloon perform as planned, it startled millions of people all over the eastern seaboard.

The balloon, 100 feet in diameter, was the biggest object anyone has ever sent up into the fringes of space. But it only weighed 130 pounds.

It was not meant to go into orbit, and soon fell back into the sea. Later the National Aeronautics and Space Administration hopes to put some of these giant space travellers into orbit around the earth.

The balloon, fired at 3.40 p.m., caught the rays of the sun at the top of its flight. As it unfolded up there, its aluminized surface caught the light at different angles and sent forth myriad flashes of reflected sunlight.

Many who saw it thought it was a flare, surrounded by sparks.

The project was not announced in advance and nobody knew what it was.

Airline pilots in flight made the air waves crackle with queries of "What is it? What shall we do?"

Prof. Robert Brown, director of the moonwatch station at New Haven, Conn., said it looked like "the craziest thing in the world."

Civil defence officials checked in with their headquarters within minutes. Newspaper, police and radio station switchboards were glutted with calls.

The plastic balloon was sent up in a two-stage rocket with a thrust of 130,000 pounds. The whole bag was folded into a container—26½ inches in diameter. The entire payload, container and all, weighed 190 pounds.

Secret Pact Inside NATO Under Debate

THE HAGUE (Reuters).—A report Wednesday to three of NATO's smallest members suggested the Big Four Western powers may have secretly formed a political directorate within the Atlantic alliance.

The report will be debated by legislators of The Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg at a meeting Friday and Saturday of their consultative interparliamentary Benelux Council.

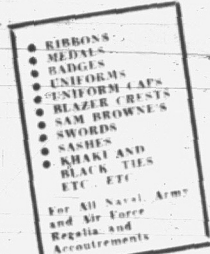

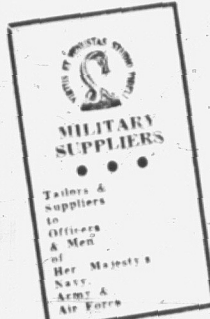

It was drawn up on behalf of the council's foreign affairs committee by a Belgian Christian Democrat, Francis Van Cauwelaert.

Van Cauwelaert declared that little has been said lately about President Charles de Gaulle's controversial memorandum in September, 1958, recommending a political directorate of the big powers within NATO.

He added: "However, the fact that on various occasions the United States first informed Britain, France and West Germany on important issues while the other NATO countries were informed at a later date gives rise to the question whether this directorate has been established secretly."

The 'Matching' Game

IF PREMIER BENNETT HAS any difficulty in determining how to disburse the goodies forecast for his Vancouver speech to-night, we have a strong recommendation:

Give the University of B.C. some of the "matching dollars" promised two years ago.

It will doubtless come as a surprise to most readers to learn that not a cent of these monies has yet been paid.

The "matching grant" offer was announced with much flourish. It served as a fine stimulus to the UBC Development Fund campaign. Friends of the University, alumni, businesses and faculty went out and, in a whirlwind campaign, raised close to $8.5 millions.

But, when University authorities went to Premier Bennett and asked him to "put up," as promised, he changed tack. He advised the University to use the cash it had collected and come back to him later for the matching dollars—presumably after the debt had been cleared off.

Thus was born a new concept of the old game. It used to be, when a man said "I'll match you," both quarters were tossed into the air at the same time.

The University has tossed its coin. The Premier has kept his hand behind his back.

The morality of such tactics will leave to the public estimate. While private citizens, supporters of the University, are faithfully fulfilling their pledges, the Government holds back. If this undertaking was made in good faith, the Premier should waste no time in honoring his commitment.

Trying It On for Size?

IT IS DIFFICULT TO SAY WHOM Premier Chou En-lai was trying to impress by his latest display of force on the Indian border—Mr. Khrushchev or Prime Minister Nehru. The skirmish on the frontier, which resulted in members of an Indian patrol being captured and others retreating under a hail of bullets, closely followed three occurrences.

These were: a warning from Prime Minister Nehru that India does not want war but would fight to defend itself; an appeal by Mr. Khrushchev for settlement of the dispute by negotiation; a declaration by Premier Chou of Red China's "age-old friendship" for India.

Any of these three developments could have a bearing on the latest attack. The Chinese leader could be increasing the pressure on traditionally pacifist India to "put it in its place" and impress Tibet with the hopelessness of expecting Indian aid.

Of Peking might be demonstrating to Mr. Khrushchev in a drastic manner that advice on international policy will be welcomed only when it is requested.

Or internal troubles in Red China—unrest in the communes, industrial set-backs, to name only two possibilities—may be driving Premier Chou to foment border troubles in order to direct the minds of his people away from their own problems.

Within a few days, Red China and the United States will be resuming quiet talks in Warsaw, designed to clear away long-standing difficulties. Little has come from previous conversations on this officially unofficial level, but the ground is being explored and the meetings could result in removal of some continuing grievances—including United States concern over five U.S. citizens still held prisoner in China.

The real quality of the current India-China trouble may be revealed indirectly through the contact in Warsaw. If Peking is determined to be recalcitrant on all fronts it should readily become apparent.

An Opportunity Missed

LOCAL LIBERALS MAY FIND little comfort in the fact that 38 persons turned out for their recent nominating meeting. Nor is the fact that they chose the identical three men to run in the next election who stood in 1956 a source of optimism.

At the provincial level, the Liberals have been encouraged by the performance of a new leader, enunciating new ideas and bringing with him some new faces. A rally in Vancouver a fortnight ago produced an audience of 1,600, which is believed to be the largest single audience at a political meeting in B.C. since John Diefenbaker came west with his "vision."

The Real Thing at Last?

THE ENQUIRY INTO U.S. QUIZ shows following charges of faking has spurred the Columbia Broadcasting System to undertake a general clean-up of all aspects of their broadcasts which are not genuine.

This is a very belated recognition of the right of the public to be treated as something more than a captive audience of complacent dupes. It was bad enough to follow TV programs which purported to demonstrate intellectual feats by participants, only to learn that the shows were rigged. But TV viewers will also welcome the CBS order to remove all the tangle of supplementary phonyness from programs—the audience "applause" which is added from prepared tapes, the canned laughter which is fed into the program to greet otherwise undeserving punchlines, and so on.

"Play it straight with the audience" is the latest instruction, a surprising one for those viewers who didn't realize they were being bilked, and a welcome one for those who were becoming tired of being treated as country bumpkins.

The Young in Heart

DR. HARRY HICKMAN, Principal of Victoria College, is to be commended for the sophisticated attitude he has taken on the recent "free love" article in a campus publication.

"Let us not take too seriously the silly stuff that university students often print in the campus newspaper," Dr. Hickman is quoted. At the same time, he defends their traditional right of expression.

Dr. Hickman, as a graduate of UBC, knows that irreverence is a natural attribute of the undergraduate. In the years ahead, the student editors will doubtless move on to atheism, Communism and Zen Buddhism, and "free love" will seem the most innocuous of their espousals.

In time they will grow out of it.

Putting the 'Brain' in Football

RUTGERS UNIVERSITY, SAY the sports pages, has recruited an IBM machine to help its football team.

The mechanical device comes up with some of the answers on why the players didn't make the touchdowns they should have made and what plays seem to have the greatest chances of success.

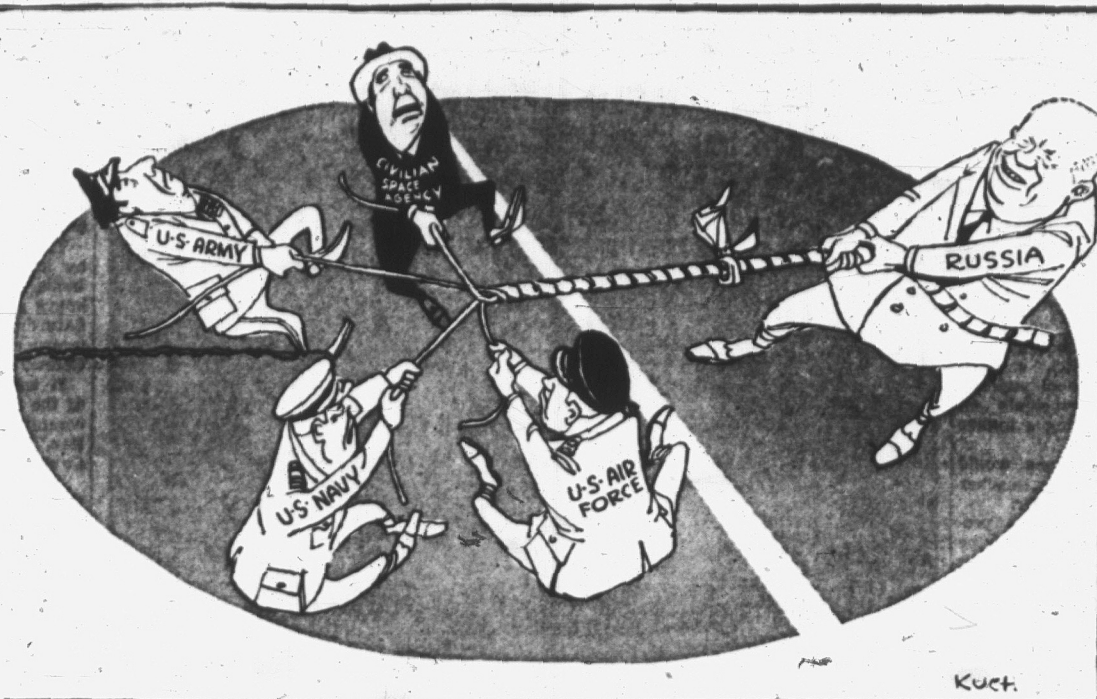

There are occasions on which American football is criticized by English rugby enthusiasts for being too mechanical. Still, the Rutgers use of an IBM should be only the beginning of this new development in mechanization.

What's wrong with throwing in a few obsolete tanks from the First and Second World Wars for the line in the offensive platoon? They ought to make ground against any opposing beef trust. And eventually it might be possible to control the whole show electronically, with football untouched by human hands or boots.

Rutgers points the way.

The Competition for Outer Space

POWER FOR CANADIAN NEEDS

By MAURICE WESTERN

Parliament Defeated Social Credit's Bid

This is the last of four articles giving the history of hydro-power exports in Canada and showing that once "temporary" export contracts are entered into they can rarely be cancelled no matter how much Canada may need the power. The point is important since Wenner-Gren promoters are suggesting that surplus power from the Peace River could be sold to the United States until Canada needs it. Past experience shows that it would be lost forever.

OTTAWA: Although the Stewart bill (requiring Parliament's permission to export power) failed to become law, the King Government accepted it as an expression of the will of the House of Commons. This was made plain in 1938 when Messrs. Hepburn and Duplessis sought federal sanction for large new exports of power.

There was some irony in this turn of events. As late as 1933 Mr. Duplessis had angrily attacked a Quebec bill approving of exports in certain cases. He described it as legislation "to give part of the soul of Quebec to the Americans" for an inadequate return.

Mr. Hepburn who, as a Member of Parliament, had voiced no protest against the Stewart bill now quarrelled violently with the Prime Minister on the issue of exports.

Claimed Reductions

It was a time of temporary power surplus. The Montreal Light, Heat and Power Company applied for a licence to export 40,000 h.p. to the Aluminum Co. of America at Massena. It claimed that exports would make possible substantial reductions in the rates charged Canadian consumers.

Mr. King refused to take the urgent action requested on the ground that policy must first be discussed in parliament.

Shortly afterwards, Mr. Hepburn personally requested the Prime Minister to approve the export of 120,000 h.p. by Ontario Hydro to the United States.

He argued that Ontario's needs had been "notoriously over-estimated," that the province was passing up millions in American dollars while water ran away unused. His request was refused.

In fact, Ontario was on the eve of a power shortage. By the 1940s, in the words of Mr. Philpott (who had campaigned for Mr. Hepburn) the province would have paid a "king's ransom" for the equivalent of the power that Mr. Hepburn wanted to export.

The Liberal Government countered the Duplessis-Hepburn demands by introducing legislation to amend the Act of 1907. As explained by Mr. King, the principle was that there should be a general prohibition of exports, subject to exemptions which might be approved by Parliament.

Commons Approval

This meant that, in future, approval would have to be sought from Parliament not, as in the past, from the Government.

There was some objection in the Commons to the procedure proposed—that of a private bill. But the critics, Mr. R. B. Bennett, leader of the Conservative Opposition, supported by Mr. Stevens, Mr. Cahan and Mr. J. R. MacNicol, all sought to make the legislation a firmer barrier to exports and many of their suggestions were accepted.

In the end, the bill passed, without a recorded division. It was not, however, reported back by the Senate.

In 1953, Mr. Howe moved to tighten the protection. The Act of 1907 applied to exports of electricity or of water if transmitted through a pipe. It did not cover the case of water flowing down a river bed into the United States.

The Kaiser interests, with the backing of the Social Credit Government of British Columbia, were then seeking permission to build a dam storing water in the Arrowhead Lakes, thus regulating the flow downstream. This would make it possible for the Bonneville authority (a U.S. federal agency distributing power wholesale in the Columbia basin) to generate more power at Washington sites.

Kaiser and Bonneville would divide 80 per cent of this; British Columbia being paid with the remaining 20 per cent plus American dollars.

Stream Water

Mr. Howe's bill, which became law, replaced the Act of 1907 with a new Act covering the case of stream water. (This stopped the Kaiser interests' plans.)

Opposition came from Social Credit members who revived Mr. Hepburn's themes. The province, they charged, was being required to pass up rich cash rewards while water ran unused to the sea. The Kootenay area, in their view, had an enormous potential surplus which would be unusable in British Columbia for 30 to 40 years.

None of these arguments impressed the other parties, all of whom were firmly against power exports.

It is possible that the old issue will rise again in the present Parliament though in a rather different form. Among some high officials there is a view that power might be exported without being lost—as was always the case in the past—if agreements were made, not between private companies, but between governments.

The theory is that a treaty, containing a "recapitulation" clause, would be enforceable because it would formally bind the Senate of the United States.

This is not entirely a novel theory but never in the past has it been seriously considered by the Parliament of Canada.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

Who's Next?

I am in complete accord with the writer of the letter (your issue Oct. 17) on the price of haircutting. The recent increase in price cannot possibly be justified. I myself have now only a fringe of hair left and no barber ever puts ten minutes time on me. $1.50 for such a service I consider extortion. I commend "A.M." for getting his shears and having one of the family do the household. Since the recent increase in price my wife has cut mine, and I shall continue to be trimmed at home.

It seems every group now-a-days is grabbing and grabbing for more and more, and tries to enforce its demands by strikes. Well, it's about time that the "Consumer" took a stand. The housewives in Chicago brought down the price of beef ten cents in one week—they just balked, that is all. The patrons of the barber shop can reduce the price of hair cuts by half any time they want to. If they don't take action they deserve no better than they are getting, and must prepare for another hike soon.

The truth is there is nothing about cutting hair that a bright chap cannot learn in a week or two, and the cost of equipment is trifling. Get your clippers boys and watch for results. Who's next?

OLD BALD HEAD

After Surgery

Over the past six years nineteen needles, thirty-five sponges, five pairs of forceps and seventeen miscellaneous objects were left inside people who had undergone surgical operations in Canadian hospitals.

This staggering total shocked a medical symposium held jointly in July of this year by the BMA and CMA in Edinburgh, Scotland.

Dr. James Hilton, Ottawa, warned doctors and surgeons not to adopt the attitude, "This could never happen to me."

May Love Sustain Them

The members of the staff may be too busy to look at this, but I would with the general public at least to know, that I appreciate all the patience, the kindness, and the refinement shown by doctors, nurses, aids, and orderlies, during my recent stay, at the Royal Jubilee Hospital. The operation upon my toe was practically painless. I appreciate that, as my delicate, sensitive nerves, would instantly register any needless pain.

The members of the nursing profession are a very, noble type of womanhood. To my way of thinking, nursing, is a rather strenuous task for a girl. It taxes her youth, vitality, and sym-thy. So we are indeed fortunate, if a sufficient number of these Angels of Mercy volunteer to fill the ranks of this essential service. May Love, Queen of Heaven, be with them ever, and sustain their hearts, as they perform their indispensable and heroic service, for the welfare of humanity.

Other Supporters

In your news story covering our plans and efforts to acquire a plant building for "Goodwill" the statement was made that only the Rotary Club of Victoria had given assistance to this society.

We are indeed also greatly indebted for the help of many other persons, also business and professional people, too numerous to mention here; also our thanks must be mentioned to the B.C. Polio Foundation for equipment donated in the amount of $3,000, which has contributed so much to the success of "Goodwill".

All here are mindful of the news coverage given by the Times over the past two years, for which we say, a warm thank you.

Confusing

Master Dickason had better have the knapsack packed ready to take to the hills. "Proper method," he writes, "of leaf disposal is to burn them." O dear, dear, how often has the Master thundered "such an act is a crime against God and man."

Then I read in the Colonist the Cadboro Bay ratepayers gave approval to the proposed $500,000 shopping centre but in the Times that they were opposed to this commercial development. It's all very confusing. I hope Bruce doesn't stay too long in Japan.

Mr. Pearkes Wrestles

"No man can imagine how dreadful hard work it is to keep awake and listen to what is said," said Davy Crockett after a term in Congress. "Splitting gum logs in August is nothing beside it."

One was reminded of the frontiersman's plight the other evening as one listened to Defence Minister Pearkes try to do justice to the topic "progress and achievement—two years of Conservative government." To witness the minister wrestle with his thesis didn't make for an easy evening.

LONDON:

Behind the Railings

THE second stage in diminishing the ceremonial value of the Brigade of Guards is now complete. The first was when they were deprived of their SMLE rifles and given the new FN weapons, which are believed good to fight with, but are of little use for arms drill.

The splendid sight of guardsmen sloping, ordering, and presenting arms has gone for ever. Now they have been further demoted by their retreat from "the railings" to a safer beat just in front of the Palace. What will be the third stage?

If they are no longer allowed a ceremonial weapon why should there be all that expense for a ceremonial uniform? Why not battledress, which would cost a lot less and would do away with any suggestion that a massacre of bears in Canada is required to provide the antique headdress?

In the end logic might even drive somebody to suggest that the Guards as a corps d'élite are no longer required in a modern army. Perhaps it all began whenever it was decided that those who guard the Sovereign no longer required loaded rifles.

Golden Picture

Rubens' "Adoration of the Magi," that golden picture in more senses than one, is now safely installed in the National Gallery room devoted to the master. On a crowded Saturday afternoon it seemed to be attracting its due share of attention from visitors among whom the under-25 note predominated.

Not all the comment was respectful or brilliant. "It's too red, isn't it?" said one French girl, and another, "The colors are soft."

By and large, however, the note struck was silence of the embarrassed shuffling sort adopted by the British before works of art. It was not clear whether they were abashed by Rubens or by the cost of his picture.

Looming especially between a "Landscape with Shepherd" and a "Portrait of a Physician," it certainly looked worth every penny of the money paid out for its pious exuberance, and gratitude to the anonymous lender was only tempered by the reflection that perhaps it would have been a good thing if the national collections could have acquired it permanently instead of on loan.

Bad Luck For Railways

The British Transport Commission still has bad luck. On Nov. 1 when some railway fares go up by much less than was threatened, holiday-makers who choose to go abroad will be given almost unlimited currency.

There is no comparison at all to be made between the two changes, but some people will draw the inevitable conclusion.

Some genius in public relations might have arranged the two announcements on different days, might have made it seem true that the government would rather see money spent on British Railways than on various other nationalized systems in Europe.

But the conclusion to the traveller seems inevitable: why spend more at home when you can easily spend much more abroad?

Longhair

Men's haircutting $1.50. One sure and easy method of assuring a reasonable cost for this simple operation appears to be cultivating a taste for rather longer hair style than formerly and reducing number of visits to the hard-worked barber per annum.

Longer than usual hair will quickly come to be recognized as a badge of merit in the battle against inflation and quite possibly result in the barbers' association realizing that they have at last overstepped all reasonable bounds by their recent action.

Pensioners and others on low fixed incomes have discovered the necessity of giving careful consideration to all purchases of goods and services as a means to offset the constantly increasing costs, and it is amazing what can be done in this matter by the exercise of a little thought and restraint in spending.

Indian Housing

Some government officials like to tell the white people how nice are the fancy-looking shacks the Federal Government is building for the natives.

Those shacks are built on the ground with no basements and they are cold and damp. With no place to keep our fuel dry we are forced to burn wet wood during the winter months. The shacks are not piped for water. We have to go out and pack in the water in buckets in all kinds of bad weather. We have no bathroom or toilet inside.

If we want to take a bath we have to boil our water on the stove in buckets and stand up in a wash tub and bathe ourselves the best way we can.

This is a lot of work especially for our people with children.

Why should we natives have to live under such deplorable conditions in this vast, rich country which is our home and native land?

NATIVE SON.

A Typical Day

WHEN the bookmobile reached Gustafson's mail box on Curving River Road, the driver sounded the horn, and Florence, the librarian, rose from the high collapsible seat set between the driver and the right-hand door.

Ruth

This part was almost automatic, she thought, and wondered how many times she and George had gone through the routine of getting ready for the borrowers, who were suddenly appearing on what seemed a deserted stretch of road.

Sound the horn (she thought), collapse the seat, push it out of the way, unlock the door, get out date stamp, cards, forms, and have the request books all ready.

This was the part that borrowers knew nothing about, she reflected, this scurry before and after every stop. For, after each stop, the book cards must be grouped together, the request slips put in their box, the returned books slid into their correct places on the shelves.

This was the behind-the-scenes part, the official housekeeping that must be done if the bookmobile was to give efficient service. The library staff work behind the request books on their special shelf, the pile of old newspapers to wrap round books on a rainy day, the broom for the hasty after-stop sweep if borrowers tracked in too much dirt—these were details that the public knew little about.

Then, for the next ten minutes, Florence was too busy with books and people to have any time for reflection.

It was the people, really, she thought as the books tidied away, the bookmobile moved on to its next stop.

Fourteen different routes, she thought, and each stop on each route had its own character and atmosphere. The borrowers made the atmosphere, though probably they would be startled if you told them that.

As the bookmobile lumbered slowly down a steep narrow track, Florence thought of the people and of the varied interests and backgrounds.

Something on the North, a grizzled old Scot had said on one of her earlier stops that month. No, he didn't want the Yukon. He'd been east of that, he said. Twenty years he'd been on the Slave and the Athabasca, and he wanted a book by someone who knew the country the way he did. It was the real thing he was after, he said.

Books on England, a woman had said. Her boy was taking a correspondence course, and books on England were what would help most right now.

A clear, good book on Christmas decorations, another woman had said, because, somehow, she'd got herself on the committee for decorating the Community Hall, and she must come up with some bright ideas at the next meeting.

She was looking for a nice, clean love story, a middle-aged woman had said, adding that she sure didn't hold with all this sex they were putting in the novels nowadays.

The bookmobile had reached the next stop now, and Florence, going through the familiar routine of getting ready, put three westerns on the desk. They might do for old Mr. Smith, she thought. Westerns were what he always wanted, and he and his wife had a little system of their own.

"We mark them, see," he'd told Florence on an earlier trip, and pointed to a pencilled cross just above the card. "A cross there, and I know that me and the wife have had it."

Florence's librarian side had shuddered at the desecration. But her human side had been delighted.

It was amazing how much news a rural librarian gathered in a single trip, she mused, when the last stop had been completed and they'd begun the long ride back to the city.

Today, for instance, she'd learned that Mrs. X had had her baby at last, a nine-pound boy. The father and the two oldest boys were batching, but the little girls had gone to their Grannie down the road, so that's why they weren't at their usual stop. And the drama group was putting on a period play and having such a time with the costumes. ("Have you a book with pictures that would help us?") The English bride who'd been so homesick at the start really seemed to be settling in at last. And the New Canadian girl from Germany was reading all she could because she felt it helped her English. And old Miss Y had identified the unknown bird, thanks to the book that Florence had brought her last time.

Yes, it had been a typical day, Florence mused, with books and people and such varied interests. And always, at each stop, there'd been the familiar, cheerful welcome of "Well, how are you today?"

"Did you see that darling blue dress in there?"

B.C. LABOR BRIEF

Tough Laws Urged On Price-Fixing

VANCOUVER (CP)—The 125,000-member British Columbia Federation of Labor (CLC) wants minimum two-year sentences for responsible officials of companies convicted of fixing prices.

At the same time it wants the convicted companies to be fined 25 per cent of profits for each year a combine has been in operation.

Amendments of the Combines Act to include the penalties was requested in a letter sent to Justice Minister Fulton Monday and released to the press Wednesday.

The letter said the federation is "extremely concerned by the brazen and ruthless manner in which Canadian manufacturers have engaged in price-fixing."

They have displayed an utter disregard for the Combines Act. We believe their manipulations to increase already substantial profits to the detriment of the public must be curbed immediately.

The letter said penalties now imposed on companies convicted under Combines legislation are inadequate.

Strong Stand Pledged By Nehru on Frontier

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Prime Minister Nehru said Wednesday his government would take firm steps to halt Chinese Communist frontier encroachments reliable sources reported.

The premier addressed a closed-door meeting of the 13 state governors now holding a convention in New Delhi.

He talked amid widespread Indian anger over alleged frontier "trespassing" by Chinese Communist troops and a week-old border clash in which nine Indian border police were slain and 10 were captured by the Chinese.

Nehru told the governors his government is determined to defend India's borders.

FIRMER POLICY

The neutralist leader also said a firmer policy toward Communist China does not mean India is joining the Western bloc of nations in the cold war.

The premier said there will be no change in India's basic policy of "non-alignment" with East or West.

Speculating on Nehru's speech, political circles ruled out any break in India's diplomatic relations with the Peking government.

Military experts forecast the stationing of regular Indian army units at all outposts.

along the 2,500-mile border with China and Communist-ruled Tibet.

They said "patrolling in depth" will be adopted to prevent Chinese entrenchment in hard-to-spot locations. A boost in air patrolling is called likely.

GOVERNORS ANXIOUS

The governors told Nehru of their anxiety over the frontier situation and called for firm action to defend it and prevent moves across the border.

The sources said another topic was the Indian Communist Party's potentialities and a report as a "fifth column" in the event of a major clash between India and Communist China.

In the city of Poona the local Communist Party committee condemned Communist China's "aggression" in connection with the clash last week in Ladakh, a Kashmir province bordering on Tibet.

Meanwhile, the "revolutionary Communist Party of India"—another leftist group—demonstrated in Calcutta outside the office of the Chinese Communist consul-general.

The demonstrators protested the spirit of aggression and expansionism displayed by China against Tibet and India.

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

A kindly woman tells me now that there would be no problem about psychopathic delinquent boys if, when they were born, good Christian parents would go to work on them and bring them up properly "in the fear of the Lord." How I wish this were true! I am sure my correspondent never had anything to do with a psychopathic delinquent. If she ever had had to deal with even one of these terribly difficult and heart-breaking persons, I am sure she would never be saying what she now says. Psychopathic delinquents often show up in good families.

Alvarez

I could write here, from my personal experience, of many fine and prominent families who had a terrible time with a psychopathic delinquent son or daughter. One of my very able friends must have spent some $100,000 trying to save his criminal son from being sent to state's prison. His years of effort did no good because, when he died prematurely, broken-hearted and in debt, the son had to go to prison.

One of the most distressing cases I saw a few months ago when a fine minister of the Gospel brought me his mentally disturbed and delinquent son. Although the boy early showed a tendency to get into scrapes, he managed to behave himself well enough to get through college. He probably would have been expelled if it hadn't been for the help of his prominent family, which after every escapade pulled wires to get things hushed up. Then his lovely wife discovered that he was leading a double life. He liked street-walkers and women whom he picked up in cheap bars and soon he got from them both gonorrhea and syphilis. Along the way, he began to cash bad checks, which his unhappy father kept making good. Then he got caught with a stolen car and this was hard to square with the police.

After several chats with the young man, I became satisfied that, although when he wanted to be charming he could be very attractive, he was too unstable to go straight. He seemed to have some of the same mental unbalance that had caused one of his uncles to be insane and another to be a periodic drinker. He would swear by all that was holy that he was going to reform, but perhaps that very afternoon he would cash a bad cheque.

As his mother said, something had always been very wrong with him, from childhood on. Then I met the man's brother and sister. They were sweet people but they, too, were so unstable that they were finding it hard to make a success of life.

It distressed me to have to tell the minister that I did not know his son could be made over into the sort of person he was not and never had been. Certainly, his environment had always been good. He had the best of teachers and some good psychiatric help. What was hard to face for the future was that jails would not keep the man for more than a few months at a time, and mental hospitals would not take him at all. And he was too much of a wilful child with no self-control and no concern for the consequences of this petty swindling—to live out in the world. As I often say, if we had any sense, we would put all of these human misfits on an island somewhere, where they couldn't do anyone any harm.

CLOVER LEAF TUNA SPECIALS

The most economical way to be adventurous in cooking is to start with a supply of Clover Leaf albacore tuna. Clover Leaf tuna, the only tuna packed in Canada, has such a delicate flavor that it blends well with almost all other foods. From salads to souffles, from French cooking to Chinese, Clover Leaf tuna is as right as the recipe.

COOKING BY TASTE MEANS NO NEED TO MEASURE
Heat Clover Leaf Tuna in butter. Add cream. Season with minced onion, lemon juice, salt, pepper and a little nutmeg. Sprinkle with fried almonds. Serve with fluffy rice. Garnish with pineapple and green pepper.

CALABRIAN PIZZA

The base: bread dough. The sauce: onion, garlic, tomatoes and your choice of seasoning, simmered until thick. Cover dough with Clover Leaf Tuna and sauce. Bake 15 minutes at 450°. Cover with cheese. Bake 5 minutes.

A LITTLE BIT BETTER SANDWICH

Clover Leaf Tuna all by itself makes a delicious sandwich. Teamed with crisp bacon, tomato, lettuce and mayonnaise, Clover Leaf Tuna makes a clubhouse worthy of a "cordon bleu."

TUNA AND CHEESE WITH FRENCH FLAIR

Season white sauce with thyme, minced onion, salt and pepper. Cook. Stir in cheese and butter. Don't cook. Pour sauce over Clover Leaf Tuna. Sprinkle with grated cheese. Broil.

Annual X-Ray Check On Cancer Hazardous

Hazards of excessive exposure to radiation may outweigh the benefits of yearly checks by X-rays to diagnose lung cancer, said Dr. Murray Anderson, medical director of the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

He commented on the recent Saskatchewan Medical Association meeting where the yearly checkup was advocated as a preventive measure in the fight against cancer.

The annual examination would be effective in tracing cancer of the lung, he said, but less effective in finding the growth if it started in branches of the throat leading to the lungs.

NEW DEMAND FOR CURBS

Alberta Oilmen Protest Imports

CALGARY (CP) — An announcement that a shipment of foreign crude is due at the Lakehead this week to replace Western Canada crude has brought fresh demands from some oilmen for government restrictions on oil imports.

Canadian Husky Oil Ltd. announced that a tanker loaded with Venezuelan crude will dock at Fort-Williams, Ont., with 60,000 barrels for the Earl William Refinery of Husky Oil and Refining Ltd.

The company blamed the economics of transportation for the decision to buy cheap foreign oil. The 3,000-barrel-a-day refinery has been using crude shipped by rail tank car from the Weyburn and Midale fields of southwest Saskatchewan.

URGES QUOTAS

The strongest comments came from Charles S. Lee, president of Western Decalita Petroleum Limited and an official spokesman for a group of independents in favor of an oil pipeline from Alberta to Montreal.

"Quotas on foreign oil should be imposed but not as a direct result of this particular shipment. This is just a symptom of the general problem we are facing — the dumping of distress crude in various parts of Canada," he said.

"With the United States imposing restrictions on importation of crude from some of these areas, Canada now is practically the only open market for such cargoes."

IRONY HERE

Ironically, Canadian Husky was one of the nine companies which filed briefs with the Borden commission suggesting import restrictions on foreign crude as a means of finding an outlet for market-starved western Canada oil.

J. P. Gallagher, president of Dome Petroleum Limited, also one of the group of nine, said Husky's action indicates that industrial leaders can't be expected forever to act like statesmen and pass up profitable deals unless there are regulations to prevent them from buying from the cheapest source.

UNDER STUDY BY OTTAWA

OTTAWA (CP) — The problem of so-called "distress" crude oil being dumped on Canadian refineries, replacing Canadian crude, now is under study by the federal government.

Government officials declined Wednesday night to comment directly on the case of 60,000 barrels of Venezuelan oil is due at Fort William, Ont., this week, replacing Canadian crude formerly refined there by Canadian Husky Oil Limited.

CBRT Wins Votes Of Coast Seamen

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers (CLC) said today it has won eight new certification votes among employees of west coast shipping companies.

Brotherhood headquarters said the rival Seafarers' International Union (Ind.) had a majority in two companies but that one of these votes will be appealed by the brotherhood.

Results from one company, following a vote count at Vancouver Wednesday, had not been received here today.

Overall score as received here: Brotherhood, 214; Seafarers, 91.

HEAVY MAJORITIES

Results as received at brotherhood headquarters showed these votes favoring that union:

Island Tug and Barge Limited, 50 to 10; Canadian Tugboat Company, 22 to 3; Motor Vessel Mogul of Griffiths Steamship Company, 8 to 0; Vancouver Tugboat Company, 49 to 20; F. M. Yorke and Son, 7 to 1; Great West Towing and Salvage Limited, 10 to 2; Giffey Brothers Limited, 28 to 2; Bute Towing Limited, 2 to 0.

SIU majorities:

Gulf of Georgia Towing Company, 15 to 8; Straits Towing Limited, 38 to 30.

Straits Towing operates tugs and barges. Previously each division had been listed as a separate company for the vote, which would have made a total of 42 in all.

The 11th company, from which no returns had been received here today, was Pacific Tanker Company.

HAD BEEN AGENT

Most of the companies operate tugs, barges and scows, and the SIU has been bargaining agent in them. It opposed the brotherhood certifications recently before the Canada labor relations board here.

A brotherhood spokesman said the vote in Straits Towing Limited will be appealed before the board on the contention that brotherhood members had, in effect, been fired by the company during the coast woodworkers strike.

Labor Backs Civil Servants

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pat O'Neal, secretary of the 120,000-member British Columbia Federation of Labor (CLC), said Monday the federation is solidly behind federal civil servants in their dispute with the government.

He was commenting on a statement on a resolution passed by the Vancouver Postal Employees Association saying the association would seek the backing of organized labor.

"We will give them any aid we can in placing their cause before the public," said Mr. O'Neal.

'Ice Bomb' On Farm

MARTIN, Ga. (AP) — A farmer reported that a 50-pound chunk of ice with a "loud whistling noise" plummeted to earth from a clear sky Wednesday, barely missing him. C. T. Lecroy, 39, said the ice splintered when it hit the ground on his northeast Georgia farm and left a crater about the size of an automobile wheel.

IN ALBERTA OIL SANDS

Canada A-Blast May Be Allowed

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canada may still get the opportunity to explode an atomic bomb to free oil from Alberta's Athabasca oil sands.

U.S. authorities said Wednesday Russia has agreed to drop its objections to the peaceful use of nuclear explosives in any new agreement to extend the current nuclear test ban.

This indication was conveyed to John A. McCone, chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, who just returned from a tour of Russian atomic energy plants and laboratories.

Officials said details of the new provision would be worked out after major issues had been resolved at current Geneva test-ban talks. Generally, the Russians would demand they be allowed one peaceful explosion for each one made by the West and that each application be approved by a proposed international control commission.

The Canadian atomic blast, scheduled for next February or March was called off last Sept. 30 on grounds that such an explosion might revive the East-West cold war in view of the temporary ban on atomic explosions.

Richfield Oil Corporation of Los Angeles had intended to set off the blast in a 17,000-acre field about 175 miles northeast of Edmonton. This field is believed to contain 300,000,000 barrels of retrievable oil.

VETERAN of both world wars, Air Vice-Marshal Clifford M. McEwen, 63, of Toronto, was appointed Wednesday a director of Trans-Canada Air Lines for a three-year term.

Fluoride Vote Urged This Year

Victoria-Esquamalt health board Wednesday urged Greater Victoria municipalities to hold referendum votes on fluoridation of the water supply this December.

Oak Bay council already has scheduled a vote for its residents on the question. Esquamalt council has rejected the proposal.

The health board action reversed its previous recommendation that the vote be delayed for one year.

Board members said that the volume of discussion on the issue has grown in the interval and most persons should be thoroughly familiar with the question.

NO HARM

Ald. M. H. Mooney said a meeting of dentists and elected officials last week arranged by the board had brought out the facts "that fluoridation will benefit all the people, not just children and it will not harm anyone."

Both Ald. Mooney and board chairman R. H. Reeve expressed regret that Esquamalt councillor G. K. Sammon was not present to outline Esquamalt council's reasons for shelving the vote proposal.

(It was Coun. Sammon who originally proposed that referendums be held this year and then led the decision to recommend a postponement.)

Mr. Reeve pointed out that the vote should be scheduled for a mayoralty year in order to benefit from the usually larger turnout of voters.

RAPID SWITCHES

Ald. D. J. Proudfoot said the people should be allowed to "I can't understand these decide the question."

very rapid switches around election time," he said. "Let's be counted as being for it or against it instead of shelving it."

Before the formal decision to recommend a vote this year was taken, Mr. Reeve contacted Coun. Sammon by phone.

He reported that Coun. Sammon said he was in favor of fluoridation but that Esquamalt council was unanimous that there was not enough time to acquaint the public with the issue before December to warrant a vote this year.

ARTHRITIS

'Mumbo Jumbo Era Past'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dr. J. H. Kellgren, professor of rheumatology at the University of Manchester, England, said here Wednesday a major breakthrough is eminent in rheumatism and arthritis research.

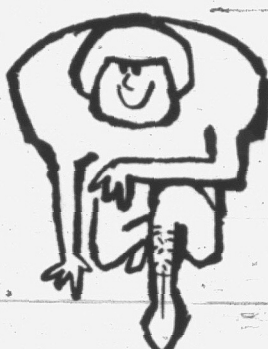

Addressing a meeting of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, Prof. Kellgren said a permanent cure for the afflictions can be expected within the next 20 or 30 years.

"We have got out of the phase of mumbo-jumbo and mystery and now we can begin to think of these problems in a practical way," he said.

Bulk of the research now is being devoted to plotting the geographic distribution of more than 50 types of the disease.

LONDON (Reuters)—More than 200,000 poultry birds, many of which were being fattened for Christmas, have been slaughtered during the last six weeks because of an epidemic of incurable fowl pest in the Midlands, the agriculture ministry said Wednesday.

WITCH DOCTOR TIED LEGS

Use of Ju-Ju Dolls Just Isn't Cricket

Lagos, Nigeria (Reuters) Sports fans debated today the propriety of using witch doctor charms and ju-ju ritual as an aid in soccer strategy.

One Nigerian sports writer contended that a visiting team from Ghana brought in a witch doctor to put the hex on the local club before an Olympic qualifying game last Saturday and then went out to beat them 4-1.

The writer, sports editor of The Daily Service, said he got into the Ghana camp disguised as a Ghanaian the day before the game.

He saw the players wearing rings of black thread. They drank from a tumbler of black water, spat on a black-painted skull and chanted a war song, as another skull, painted red, was carried among them.

A witch doctor performed a ritual involving ju-ju dolls representing the opposing team.

During the game, he said, the witch doctor tied the legs of some of the dolls when Nigeria was on the attack.

SPORTS DIARY

By JIMMY CANNON

The National Basketball Association today was intimidated by Wilt Chamberlain, who is unfair to people. The game has been changed by his skills, which make him taller than his measured seven-foot-two. He makes dwarfs out of the giants of the sport and embarrasses the freaks with his talent.

It is as if he represented a new species, inhuman and beyond comprehension, an immense grasshopper from a defanged anthropologist's hallucination. The Knickerbockers, who were beaten last Saturday night, 118 to 109, by the Philadelphia Warriors, consider him the greatest ever to perform in their league. The other guys on the Warriors were merely servants of his ability as he made 43 points and collected 28 rebounds.

It was as if he were a cordon thrown around the basket. He dominated the course of the game and forced the Knicks out of their design of play. They had to alter their pattern of shots and they became inaccurate as they tried to score over his up-flung hands.

There is nothing Chamberlain didn't do well in the first game in the league. He resembled a giraffe having fun with a flock of sheep, taunting them with his height. He has a variety of shots, but his most effective is a jump which he starts with his back to his guard. It begins as a hook, but he doesn't lean off to the side to sling the ball, but comes up straight to push it with a tender touch.

It is wrong to refer to him as The Stilt because this suggests a stiff-legged clumsiness. Chamberlain had a kind of comical small-headed big-footed grace. He is agile and nimble and confident of his stooped length. He played with a glad stamina until there were only 43 seconds left in the timer's clock.

There is in Chamberlain a sympathy for those who attempt to contain him. At times he seemed to regret humiliating the giants he stunted with his presence. They suddenly became runts and Ray Felix, six-foot-eleven inches of uncertain awkwardness, became a midget when he was on the floor with Chamberlain.

Knicks Entertained by His Skill

Saturday night, as if elated by the serious competition of the league after trying to be humorous on tour with the Globetrotters, Chamberlain's bones seemed to grow longer as the game progressed. Afterward, in their dressing room, the Knicks discussed his performance, as if they had been spectators at some legendary game seen long ago in childhood.

Generally, such forums are crabbed. Beaten teams are cranky. They frisk the other people for defects. But the Knicks regarded Chamberlain with a sort of awed fondness, as if he had entertained them with his greatness. They didn't sound like the club Chamberlain had played against. They had the attitude of some of the 15,127 buffs who had neglected their partisan feelings to honor him with ovations.

"What can I say?" asked Fuzzy Levane, who coaches the Knicks. "I'm at a loss for words. He's like a one-man zone defence. He shot very well tonight. Some night he will make 90 points in this league. There is no way you can stop him from getting the ball. We tried to collapse on him, but it didn't do any good."

It is Carl Braun's opinion that there has never been anyone like Chamberlain in the 12 seasons he has played with the Knicks.

"He's better than George Mikan," said Braun. "Because of George's weight, he couldn't do the things that Chamberlain does. This fellow's astounding. I got my shots off against him. But I had to arch them a foot higher. You can't do anything with him under the basket. You must hit from the outside. If you miss from the outside, he gets the ball."

They didn't attempt to demean him. Seldom do you hear guys on the other team praise a man this way. It was as if Chamberlain had played for the Knicks and they had served his greatness as members of his team.

"It was an honor to play with him," said Richie Guerin. He spoke for all of them.

Big Shuffle Possible In Tight Soccer Race

Standings in the Victoria and District Football League may be due for a wholesale shuffling in weekend action.

Only two points separate eight of the 10 clubs which will display their soccer wares in five matches.

Currently heading the pack is Ladysmith, one point in front of Evcoes, Saanich Thistles and Heaneys, who are deadlocked in the runner-up spot with five points.

Sharing a four-way tie for third place, two points off the pace are Kickers, Canadian Scottish, Gorge Hotel and Victoria West. Brodies Bakery owns three points while Esquimalt and Navy, the only club idle over the weekend, have yet to collect a point.

Heaneys get a chance to take at least a temporary grip on first place when they meet Brodies at Royal Athletic Park in Saturday's lone tussle.

Just about anything could happen Sunday while Ladysmith is playing host to the Gorge squad.

Thistles, the only unbeaten club in the loop with two wins and a draw in three outings, clash with the youthful Wests at Reynolds Road. Evcoes will match muscles with Kickers at Central Park and the Scots will clash with Esquimalt at Heywood Avenue.

All matches are scheduled to get under way at 2 p.m.

STOCK DROPS AGAIN . . .

Lesson Sinking In Too Slowly

LONDON (AP)—Sweden's team of part-time players to-day stands undisputed as a major force in the soccer world while England's stock once more has crashed to rock bottom.

The Swedish 3-2 victory over England at Wembley, Wednesday, showed that Sweden's run to the World Cup final last year—it lost to Brazil—was not just a fluke hometown performance.

BIG TROUBLE FOR LITTLE 'CAT'

After stopping Gordie Fashoway (11) cold at Spokane Tuesday, goalie Emile Francis had nothing but trouble with Cougar winger at Memorial Arena Wednesday night. Although unable to get puck behind "The Cat," on this play, Fashoway pumped two shots into nets to provide difference as Cougars whipped Comets, 3-1. Watching from background is Victoria's Art Jones and worried eyes behind Fash's shoulder belong to Spokane coach Joe Crozier. (Times photo by Bill Halkett)

Plante, Terry Moving In Opposite Directions

By The Canadian Press

Goalie Jacques Plante's goals-against average keeps going down as Montreal Canadiens keep going up in the National Hockey League.

But the average of Detroit Red Wings' Terry Sawchuk is climbing after a brilliant six-game stretch in which he was nicked for only five goals.

Plante, known around the league for his acrobatic stunts, has allowed one goal in each of Montreal's last five games to bring his average down to 2.36 after it had soared to 3.50 in the early part of the season.

Wednesday night at Toronto, Plante allowed Toronto Maple Leafs a third-period goal by Dick Duff which gave the Leafs a 1-1 tie with Canadiens. Veteran Maurice Richard had scored earlier for Montreal, which stretched its unbeaten string to six games.

SAWCHUK ALLOWS THREE
Sawchuk's average rose to 1.25 Wednesday night as he allowed New York Rangers three quick third-period goals which gave the Blueshirts a 3-3 tie with Detroit in the league's only other game.

It was the first time this season that Sawchuk had allowed three goals in one game.

Camille Henry, Andy Bathgate and Andy Heberton scored Rangers' goals within four minutes and 49 seconds. The Wings had built up a 3-0 first period lead on goals by Jerry Melnyk, Gordie Howe and Gary Aldcorn.

Heberton climaxed a neat passing play with Red Sullivan and Lou Fontinato by beating Sawchuk from 10 feet out for the tying goal.

Sawchuk made 26 saves in the game while Rangers' Lorne Worsley, playing well before a home crowd, stopped 28.

HABS PULL AHEAD

The Canadiens tie gave them 16 points and left them four ahead of runner-up Detroit. Toronto is third with 10, Boston fourth with seven, New York has six and Chicago Black Hawks have only three in nine games.

Plante, made 27 saves against Toronto, 16 of them in the second period. Leafs' Johnny Bower stopped 24.

WORLD RECORD ATTEMPT

Guy Tunes Up Jets For Fast Boat Beat

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Guy Lombardo, a specialist in slow music and fast boats, will send his new jet-powered hydroplane after a world speed record in the next few weeks.

The orchestra leader announced Wednesday that the attempt will be made on southern California's Salton Sea or on Lake Mead in Nevada. The record is 260.35 miles an hour.

Lombardo's new boat is the Alcoa Tempo, an aluminum craft powered by an Allison J35 turbojet engine. It will be piloted either by Lombardo or its designer, Lester Staudacher.

Lombardo, a native of London, Ont., said the hydro has been built for one purpose only—to return the record to the United States. It has been held since 1955 by Donald Campbell of England.

"Our goal is 300 miles an hour," said Lombardo.

AS SWEDES BEAT ENGLAND

It showed, too, that England is on the wrong foot in its team building plans for the 1962 competition in Chile and must start some drastic re-thinking.

Even without their big stars, who are tied up in Italian soccer, the Swedes rammed home the point that England has been learning these last six years—that English soccer just doesn't rate in the world standings.

The English have had a bitter lesson and apparently are slow to learn from it.

England's 1958 World Cup showing was a flop. Then came a disastrous American tour with defeats by Peru, Mexico and Brazil.

In an attempt to recover England's lost reputation, team manager Walter Winterbottom has concentrated on young prospects in the hope of finding a winning combination for the next World Cup.

But with two exceptions—left half Ron Flowers and centre forward Brian Clough—the England team never looked to be a match for Sweden.

The centre forward, Agne Simonsson, whose two great second-half goals put Sweden on the victory path, said the Swedes realized in advance that England was vulnerable to a short passing attack.

"We remember the way Hungary beat England six years ago," he said.

"And we tried to base our play on the same methods as the great Hungarians."

Luck Fickle Pal For Agile Emile

Fashoway Star As Cats Pad Unbeaten Skein

Cougars 3, Comets 1

By DOUG PEDEN

Any hockey player will tell you that luck is a fickle friend, but no one is more convinced of the fact today than Emile Francis.

Now serving his second season with Spokane's Western Hockey League club, the little goalie with the big heart has only to think back over the past two nights for a reminder.

Against Victoria, Cougars Tuesday in Spokane, "The Cat" was admittedly having one of his uncertain nights. And to make matters worse, most of his luck was bad as the Cougars blasted out a 7-2 victory over Emile and his friends.

"The first two shots came on screened shots that I never saw," said Francis. "Then we had to open up to try and get even and things just got worse."

However, there was one bright spot in Emile's gloomy evening. He was having good luck in a duel with Gordie Fashoway. Three times the big Cougar winger broke into the clear and three times Francis robbed him of goals with spectacular saves. Fashoway, who has notched more WHL goals than any other player, finished the night as one of the only two Cougars who failed to collect at least one scoring point.

EMILE BRILLIANT

Wednesday night at Memorial Arena, "The Cat" was at his agile best against the Cougars, showing 2,035 paying customers just how he earned his nickname. And most of his luck was good as Francis battled mightily to give Spokane its second win in nine starts.

There was only one major flaw in his fortune as he kicked out a total of 38 shots — Gordie Fashoway.

Big Fash boomed in for two goals and the tallies proved to be the difference as the Cougars racked up a 3-1 triumph to stretch their unbeaten streak to seven games and keep pace with Vancouver's league-leading Canucks, who stayed four points in front with a Wednesday win at Calgary.

QUICK REVENGE

Exactng quick revenge for Emile's larceny of the previous evening, Fashoway took a pass from Art Jones in full stride and moved in to give Victoria an early lead and Gorge Ford made it 2-0 midway in the first period.

Gordie made his own opening for his second tally, stealing the puck at midice from ex-Cougar Don McLeod and fooling Francis with a quick 15-foot flip shot from the right side at 12:32 of the second session.

Two minutes later, Al Johnson barreled into a scramble in front of the Victoria goal to bang home a loose puck for the Spokane goal that ruined goalie Marcel Pelletier's bid for his first shutout of the season.

OFF ON TIMING

Although Marcel came close to recording a shutout and trimmed his goals-against average to 1.77, his timing appeared off for the first time this season and he needed some fortunate breaks to hold the Comets to one goal.

Two Spokane shots hit the pipes and several times the Comets missed inviting targets on close-in efforts. Les Lilley, Al Johnson and Ching Johnson flubbed great opportunities to close the gap in the final period, Lilley backhanding a shot off a post and the Johnson boys each shooting wide from point-blank range.

Pelletier was at his busiest in the opening period, taking a lot of steam out of the Spokes by making 14 saves. Francis sparked while under steady pressure in the final 20 minutes when he made 18 of his stops.

FIFTH STRAIGHT

Cougars played their best hockey during that third period, brightening the evening considerably for the fans after both clubs had scrambled somewhat aimlessly through the opening two stanzas of the least entertaining Memorial Arena game of the season.

It was the fifth straight victory for the Cats since they struggled to a 1-1 deadlock with Seattle in their fourth game, and they are now taking dead aim at the club record of nine games without defeat. They'll try to extend their current unbeaten skein to eight at Spokane Saturday night.

If all goes well, they'll be shooting for number nine at Seattle Sunday before hosting Winnipeg Warriors at the arena next Wednesday.

PUBLICIZED ARMY

NEW YORK (AP)—Col. Walter H. (Cappy) Wells, who helped put Army's football teams in the headlines as public information officer at West Point in the 1920s and 1930s, died Wednesday in hospital after a lengthy illness. He was 68.

Ken Joins Welters; Beats Former King

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bloodied Kenny Lane crashed the welterweight boxing ranks Wednesday night with a split decision over St. Louis' Virgil Akins, former welterweight champion, in a televised 10-round bout.

Lane, the second ranked lightweight contender, survived a deep cut over his right eye in the third round. He weighed 144½, and Akins 146.

In the sixth-Lane caught Akins solidly under the left eye. The St. Louis veteran—desperate to retain his place among the rated welterweights—also had to struggle the rest of the gory battle with a cut marring his vision.

There were no knockdowns. For a moment in the third it appeared that the ring physician David Gordon had stopped the fight after Bowen called him in to check Lane's wound. Gordon said afterward the cut had at first seemed dangerous, but after a careful look he decided Lane could fight on.

It Cost a Bundle To Let Prince Run

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—Bourbon Prince, almost missed his chance to run for some $285,000 because his breeder has a habit of ignoring mail.

Bourbon Prince was nominated for the 1959 running of the rich Garden Slakes by his breeder, Charley Clay. He then sold the colt to Mrs. A. L. Rand, wife of a Santa Fe, N.M., shoe manufacturer, for $50,000 but never told Garden State officials of the sale.

When the March, 1959, payment of $100 to keep colts eligible for this Saturday's stakes event came due, Clay was notified by letter and telegram. Notorious for not opening his mail or paying attention to telegrams, Clay failed to make the payment or forward the information to Mrs. Rand.

Woody Stephens, trainer of Bourbon Prince, and Mrs. Rand were shocked upon arriving here last week with their prize juvenile to learn he wasn't eligible for the richest race in the world.

COST $10,000

In order to get Bourbon Prince in the feature for two-year-old horses, Mrs. Rand had to ante up $10,000 to make the colt a supplementary entry.

The field of 11 expected for Saturday's race means a $285,075 gross purse—$171,045 to the winner.

Probable starters are Bourbon Prince, Tompion, Bally Ache, Warfare, Venetian Way, Azure Orphan, T. V. Lark, Pied D'Or, Stephen S. Surullah and Judge Martin.

Bears Finish In Top Berth

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Sarnia Golden Bears defeated London Lords 50-17 Wednesday night in the final game of the regular Ontario Rugby Football Union schedule and ended in first place.

Sarnia and London were tied with seven victories and four defeats but Sarnia ended on top by virtue of its scoring margin over London during the season.

'MISINTERPRETED'

Tory Denies Patronage Admission

TORONTO (CP)—Alderman Harold Menzies said Wednesday night that a report that he distributed patronage from both federal and provincial governments is absolutely false.

Mr. Menzies, a defeated Progressive Conservative candidate in the Ontario election last June, was reported to have told the Trinity-Rosedale Progressive Conservative Association Tuesday night that two shopkeepers selected by himself and party officials were accepted by the postmaster-general for the installation of sub-post offices in their stores.

"I had been talking about a bastard piece of literature that had been circulated about me during the campaign in which I had been called bigoted," Mr. Menzies said Wednesday night.

He said that in his speech to illustrate that it didn't matter to him what a man was, he told how he had been asked as an alderman to assist in finding two shopkeepers willing to take on sub-post offices. The sub-post offices were finally given to two new Canadians "and I didn't ask or care what race or religion they were."

Tourist Allowance Up

PARIS (Reuters)—The French government Wednesday announced an increase in the foreign exchange allocation for French tourists abroad to 150,000 francs (about $300) a year. The finance ministry said the measure takes effect immediately. The former allowance was 50,000 francs.

Appeal Attempt Lost By V.I. Safe Robber

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Columbia Court of Appeal Monday confirmed conviction of Edward Charles Lyon Wilson of Ladysmith for a safe robbery 22 months ago. Wilson was first found guilty of breaking into the Alberni District Co-operative Association building on May 20, 1957, and was sentenced by Judge Arnold Hanna to five years.

He conducted his own appeals, but failed to upset his second conviction last May 22 by Judge A. A. J. Swensky, who sentenced him at Alberni to three years.

U.S. JET PHOTO PLANES GIVEN OVER TO CHIANG

TAIPEI, Formosa (UP)—The United States disclosed today it is giving supersonic RF-101 Voodoo jet reconnaissance planes to Nationalist China.

Sources also said Nationalist Sabrejets shot down a Communist MiG early this month in a battle that was hushed up because the U.S. wants peace in the Formosa Straits.

Military sources said the Voodoo, already being delivered in Formosa, is equipped with side view cameras, and could fly over the Formosa Straits parallel to the Red China coast and photograph military installations 100 miles inland.

PEOPLE OF CANADA FEDERAL CIVIL SERVANTS ARE APPEALING TO YOU

- Because Our employer has refused to implement the salary increase recommended by the Civil Service Commission.
- Because The Government has given an unfair and biased picture of the issue.
- Because The Government, our employer, provides no appeal from its unilateral decisions.
- Because We, as civil servants, have no appropriate system of collective bargaining.
- Because We believe that the public wants its employees adequately paid and fairly treated.
- Because We do not ask for special consideration but equality with the rest of the working population.
- Because All workers in Canada except Government employees are protected from unfair employer practices by labour legislation.

HERE IS THE TRUE STORY OF THE PRESENT SALARY DIFFICULTIES OF CIVIL SERVANTS

- JAN. - MARCH 1958 . . . Civil service organizations present their case for salary increases.
- MAY 1, 1958 . . . Prime Minister Diefenbaker says, "For many years it has been generally accepted that two main principles should guide the determination of salaries in the Service. First the salaries must be enough to do the job, that is to attract enough of the right kind of men and women into the Service and keep them in it; second, they must be fair as between Civil Servants and people outside the Service, the taxpayers if you will, which means that the salaries we pay for any class of work should be comparable with those paid by private employers for similar classes of work, taking into account the other terms of employment that are necessary to make a fair comparison. I think these principles should continue to guide us."
- JULY 17, 1958 . . . Civil Service Commission acting under Section 11 of the Civil Service Act which states, "The Commission shall, from time to time, as may be necessary, recommend rates of compensation for any new classes that may be established hereunder, and may propose changes in the rates of compensation for existing classes," recommended that Civil Service salaries should not be increased.
- SEPTEMBER 1958 . . . Government accepts CSC recommendation and releases its report for public information.
- OCTOBER 1958 . . . Prime Minister tells civil servants that they must wait for the next Civil Service Commission report before any salary action can be taken.
- JANUARY 1959 . . . Prime Minister repeats his October position and stresses the importance of an independent and impartial Civil Service Commission able to make recommendations based on the factual information supplied by the Pay Research Bureau which had been established by the Government for that purpose.
- MAY 1959 . . . Pay Research Bureau report completed and given to the Government. The Civil Service Commission and the employee organizations.
- JUNE 1959 . . . The Civil Service Commission makes its salary recommendations to the Government under the terms of Section 11 of the Civil Service Act.
- AUGUST 1959 . . . The Minister of Finance tells the employees through the Joint Action Committee that further clarification of the report is required and that no action can be taken until this has been accomplished.
- OCTOBER 13, 1959 . . . Without prior warning the Government tells Civil Service that it cannot implement the Civil Service Commission's recommendations because of the cost and further that they would not have accepted these recommendations even if the money were available.

ARE THESE THE ACTIONS OF A FAIR EMPLOYER?

- Should the Government have refused even partial implementation of these recommendations?
- Should the Government refuse to release the Civil Service Commission's recommendations?

PEOPLE OF CANADA

- YOU are our ultimate employer.
- YOU are our court of last resort.

- Will you ask your M.P. to request the release of the Civil Service Commission recommendations.
- Will you ask your M.P. to request a fair and equitable adjustment of Civil Service salaries.

He Tried to Cash Telegram

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) "What are you going to do with all that money?" neighbors asked 77-year-old pensioner George Brown.

"Buy groceries," replied George. Then the little bachelor hustled from his $12-a-month room here to the telegraph office and tried to cash the telegram which told him he had won $140,000 in the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes based on Wednesday's Cambridgehire Handicap.

When they told him he could not cash a telegram, George toddled off to his old home in nearby Vancouver to pick up his pension cheque.

His pension is worth $55 a month. He gets another $20 in social assistance.

When reporters tried to question him, George said: "Go to hell. I don't want to be bothered by anybody."

Speechless

DENHOLM, Sask. (CP) — Mrs. Stan Yohubouskis, 30-year-old farm wife, said Wednesday she was so excited she couldn't think about spending the $140,000 she won in the Cambridgehire handicap at Newmarket, England.

Mrs. Yohubouskis, when she discovered she had won the money with a ticket on Rexeggus, a 25-to-1 longshot which won the handicap, said she was speechless.

To Buy Land

VETERAN, Alta. (CP) — Jorgan Garstad, a 20-year-old bachelor farmer with a longing for a "small piece of land" of his own on the eastern Alberta Prairie now can afford to buy it.

He won $140,000 Wednesday with a ticket on Rexeggus, a 25-to-1 longshot which placed handicap at Newmarket, England.

Jorgan was "doing what I usually do" on his mother's farm when the news arrived that he had won. He told reporters that as best as he could recall his first comment was "holy jumpin' jimmie," but then he added "you hadn't better print that."

A place in one of the bands marching in the New Year's Day Rose Bowl parade at Pasadena, California, may be won by one of 15 young Victoria musicians Wednesday.

Finalists will be chosen Monday from competitions throughout Greater Victoria schools and will play-off Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Central Junior High School.

Concert is sponsored by Court Victoria and Court Garden City of the International Order of Foresters which is running similar contests throughout Canada, the U.S., and the United Kingdom to pick 35 bandsmen as guest members of the IOOF Robin Hood Band of Hollywood.

Director of instrumental music for the Greater Victoria schools area, H. J. Bigsby, will select the finalists.

Consolidation of Farms For Economy Ottawa Plan

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (CP) — The government hopes to formulate a rural development program resulting in consolidation of some small farms into economic units, Resources Minister Alvin Hamilton said today.

"The government has had this problem under study for the past year," he said, referring to non-economic farm units where income isn't adequate to provide a reasonable level of living, and where farmers are anxious to improve their positions, either by larger farm businesses or by moving into other occupations.

The government hoped to "institute a rural development program which will result in the consolidation of some of these small farms into economic units and also provide technical and vocational training and other employment for those who cannot hope to reach an adequate standard of living in agriculture."

North Americans were fortunate in that they face problems of surplus rather than poverty. But they had a heavy responsibility to develop resources to get the maximum economic contribution for Canadians and other peoples, he said.

Methods of distribution needed to be improved to keep pace with improved production and the use of resources must be modified to make the greatest contribution to economic growth.

'THREW AWAY TICKET' IT'S WORTH $140,000

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — If she can collect without her ticket a 60-year-old Oakland housewife will have won $140,000 in the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes. "I threw it away a few weeks ago, but I remember the number," said Mrs. June Masters. Her name does not appear in the list of ticket holders but it is considered likely she will collect if her name is listed on records held in Dublin.

Three Delinquents Would Pay for Court

If three children were saved from the industrial school in one year, it would pay the cost of the proposed juvenile and family court for Greater Victoria, David Woodsworth, executive director of the Family and Children's Service told a Canadian Mental Health Association meeting Wednesday.

He pointed out it costs $9 daily to keep a delinquent boy at Brannan Lake and $9 to $11 a day to keep a girl at the industrial school in Vancouver.

It would cost Greater Victoria municipalities only an additional $10,000 a year over present court costs to establish the new court, he said.

"They'd spend as much on a lamp post."

MORE EFFICIENT

The court has been recommended by the attorney general's department as a more efficient arrangement for the area than present separate courts. Money would have to come from the municipality.

Mr. Woodsworth noted Greater Victoria was sending more juveniles per capita to industrial schools in Vancouver than that city, "simply because Vancouver has a unified family and children's court."

He said talks with municipal officers indicated they believed a bigger detention home would solve the problem.

"They would rather build a $50,000 home than pay $5,000 for a probation officer."

He said money spent for the Brannan-Lake school was "down the drain."

"If we (taxpayers) spent nearly the money we should, we'd spend it on staff, not buildings."

He said it was vital that the staff of the proposed court be specially trained. Present juvenile officers had no special training, and were appointed by police chiefs rather than by the court, he said.

Border Talks Set

NEW DELHI (AP) — A government spokesman said Tuesday India and Pakistan have agreed to meet at the ministerial level to try to settle disputes over their 1,500-mile common western border. No date has been announced.

400 CUBANS ARRESTED IN MATOS CONSPIRACY

HAVANA (Reuters) — Four hundred persons Wednesday were reported to have been arrested in Camaguey City, eastern Cuba.

They are accused of taking part in a conspiracy allegedly led by Maj. Hubert Matos, former military chief of Camaguey province.

Matos is being held on a charge of high treason.

INSURANCE FIRM BUST

Head Cracks Down On Caning Capers

LOWESTOFT, England (AP) — The thriving Middle School Insurance Society went out of business Wednesday.

Lowestoft Grammar School's headmaster didn't like the idea of schoolboys insuring themselves against thrashings and staying in after school.

Headmaster William Brooks squashed the enterprise as soon as the project got into all the British newspapers.

Its mastermind, David Wilkin, 13, who helped to run the insurance society, said: "We have now been told that the society was not good for the school. So it is dropped."

David and Geoffrey Small, also 13, charged their schoolmates an initial premium of sixpence. They paid thrupence for every subsequent week. They paid out four shillings to boys who got caned and three shillings to those kept in after school.

Young Wilkin learned the fine points of insurance from his father, a teacher at the school and part-time insurance agent.

When Is a Flutter Not a Flutter?

LONDON (Reuters) — The government has served notice that it intends to stir up the murky waters of one of Britain's most contentious legal problems — the laws relating to gambling.

The Briton rates high among the world's devotees of the "bit of a flutter" as he calls it. About 80 per cent of the adult population is estimated to make a bet at least occasionally, and the annual turnover is claimed to be well over £1,000,000,000.

THOUSANDS OF BOOKIES

Most Englishmen can be persuaded to bet on almost anything if the price is right, and there are thousands of professional bookmakers to provide the encouragement.

Race track bookmaking for both horses and dogs is legal. Bookmaking off the track is also legal — but only if conducted on a credit basis.

This is one curious feature of the law which will probably come under scrutiny in the campaign to "amend and modernize" betting laws which the government promised Tuesday in the throne speech opening the present parliamentary session.

The idea originally was to make it hard for the bookies. Gambling debts are not legal debts, hence a bookie has to run the risk of not being able to collect lost bets.

To serve the insolvent who may think he has something good in the third, there are thousands of illegal sidewalk "drops" who will accept anybody's half-crown when the police are not looking.

To legalize cash betting might satisfy small punters but would certainly incur the wrath of many religious leaders.

Another aspect of gambling law that often bogs the wheels of justice — a leading jurist recently called it a "hopeless muddle" — is that relating to a private game of cards for money.

An old law dating to 1845 makes it a crime to operate a "common gaming house."

'LOST' SKIPPER SAFE AFTER NIGHT IN COVE

VANCOUVER (CP)—Search for a boat missing a day was called off late Wednesday when it turned up at Bamfield, on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

The skipper of the Lass Wade reported he had lost his directions and stayed overnight in a cove.

Trout Stocking Tests At Mid-Island Lakes

DUNCAN Four small lakes in the mid-Island area, which were chemically treated by the game branch last year as part of a lake rehabilitation program, are now being tested to see if they are still toxic or ready for restocking with rainbow trout.

The lakes, Wheddie's and Fuller's, Chemainus, and Bomerang and Chain just west of Nanaimo, were treated with toxaphene in October, 1958, to kill the coarse fish.

A live box containing 25 rainbow fingerlings was placed in each of the four lakes Tuesday by game biologist Dave Hurn and game warden Bill Fowkes.

The boxes will be checked in two weeks time. A survival rate of 80 per cent will mean the lake is no longer toxic, and then be restocked with rainbow trout within a week.

Wheddie's Lake, west of Chemainus, may not need restocking. Mr. Hurn said that although all fish in the overpopulated little lake were killed last year, reports indicate that cutthroat trout from nearby creeks have found their way back into the lake and are restocking themselves naturally. He said he would make another check, and if this is the case it will not be restocked with rainbows.

Hospital Board Defies Order To Change Bylaws

(From Duncan Bureau)

Cowichan District Hospital Association Wednesday night defied orders from the Health and Welfare Department to change its bylaws, and now plans to "wait and see what happens."

The association, owner and administrator of King's Daughters' Hospital here, defeated two resolutions which would have made its bylaws acceptable to the minister.

The new bylaws had been approved by the association Feb. 25, following revision for the first time since their initial adoption in 1932. The department, however, refused to accept them.

H. B. Mathews, government appointee and chairman of the hospital board, told the association Donald M. Cox, assistant to the minister of health and welfare, made a review of the amended bylaws and stated "they do not conform to government policy."

DOCTORS BANNED
A new section of Article Three was suggested as follows: "With the exception of the representative appointed annually by the medical staff, no person who is actively engaged in the practice of medicine shall be entitled to become a director."

The association defeated the resolution by a vote of less than 75 per cent in favor, which is required for passage. Members voted 53 yes and 48 no.

A second contentious resolution, that "no employee of the hospital shall be eligible for membership in the society," was defeated by a vote of 65 to 40.

"You leave the board in a difficult situation inasmuch as we have been asked to revise our bylaws and we have been told how to revise them," Mr. Mathews said. He told the association the government had published a set of model bylaws.

"If we do not accept this set of bylaws the government can send in a set of bylaws which we would have to accept," he said.

Anyone in the mid-Island area sighting unusual objects hovering in the sky, day or night, is asked to telephone Mr. Stanley Jones at Duncan 1247-R-1.

"We feel that by calling ourselves a UFO group we will be able to put a serious note into our work. 'flying saucer' is just a name tagged onto these mysterious objects to try and belittle them," Mr. Stanley Jones said.

One of the officers of the new group is V. L. Stanley Jones of Duncan, who is keenly interested in the phenomena and who has recently investigated a number of sightings in the Cowichan district. Mr. Stanley Jones is also zone investigator for the Institute of Inter-Galactic Cosmic Science whose headquarters are in Quebec.

Object of the new research group, Mr. Stanley Jones said, is to keep records of all sightings in the mid-Island area and to investigate each one fully.

"We will also work in conjunction with the Vancouver and PBC groups," he said.

He said the words, "flying saucer" had been dropped from the group's name purpose.

WURTELE RUNS FOR 6TH TERM

Decision to run for a fifth consecutive two-year term as Reeve of Esquimalt was made by A. C. Wurtele Wednesday. A councillor from 1945 to 1951, he resigned his seat in order to run for the reeveship. "I like the job," he said. "Esquimalt has an excellent council and we work well as a team."

RALEIGH BLAMED

Statue's Unveiling Protested

LONDON (AP)—The National Society of Non-Smokers fumed and demonstrated Wednesday at the unveiling of London's first statue of Sir Walter Raleigh. The society won't forgive him for introducing tobacco into Britain.

"Don't make an ash of yourself," said signs flaunted by the non-smokers while United States Ambassador John Hay Whitney unveiled the statue of the man England beheaded 341 years ago.

The demonstration did not last long because police invited the society members to go somewhere else.

"We desisted when a police inspector called attention to a law we didn't know about," said Rev. Hubert V. Little, a Baptist clergyman and society secretary.

"In the city of Westminster there must be no provocative demonstrations of possible political significance while Parliament is in session."

Among businesses listed by the United States census bureau for 1958 were 1,090 carnivals and circuses.

DAVE BECK... "We're doing very well."

PARKING LOT TYCOON

Quarters Crossing Beck's Palm Now

SEATTLE (AP)—You drive into the big, neatly laid out parking lot and hand the heavy-set man 25 cents for four hours' parking.

He pockets the coin, then points out a spot with friendly courtesy.

"This is Dave Beck, putting in a full day at his downtown Seattle parking lot across the street from the building where he once directed the giant Teamsters' Union."

Beck, 65, one-time Teamsters' president, is far from broke. He is reputedly a millionaire. But he says he is out to prove something.

"I'm going to show everybody I can make money and I don't have to work for the Teamsters."

Beck spends six or seven hours a day, five days a week, on the job. He arrives about 8.30 a.m. and leaves around 3.30 or 4 p.m.

Beck said business was "not building up the way it should" with hired help, so he took over.

While handling quarters, Beck talks freely about deals in the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

His court battles and income tax troubles also are open for discussion. Beck was convicted last Feb. 19 of evading $225,000 in income taxes for the years 1950-53. His appeal is pending.

"That business of the income tax was all baloney," he said. "I made 10 times as much on real estate as the Teamsters ever paid me."

"When they ask Beck where he got his money, that's where I got it."

SURGICAL HISTORY MADE

Severed Leg Restored

HAYWARD, Calif. (AP)—A team of doctors has succeeded for the first time in grafting back the severed leg of a human.

Surgeons said they could find no parallel in medical history for the operation performed in Eden Hospital here.

The operation, announced Wednesday, was kept secret for three months, until doctors decided it was successful.

The operating surgeons, whose names will remain secret until their work can be reported in medical journals, described the operation anonymously in the Hayward Review.

The right leg of Billy L. Smith, 25, was crushed a few inches above the knee by a crane. Only a two-inch strip of skin connected the leg to the stump.

TRIED FOR MIRACLE

An orthopedic surgeon, who corrects deformities, telephoned a vascular surgeon, who specializes in mending torn vessels, and asked: "Do you want to try for a miracle?" The vascular surgeon agreed.

After blood vessels in the lower leg were flushed with anti-clotting fluids, the vascular surgeon said he "hooked up the severed main artery and started the blood flowing—the foot immediately turned pink."

But shortly after he stitched together the main veins, so that arterial blood could return to the heart, the foot turned white again and there was no pulse in it.

The artery was reopened, a clot removed, and the blood vessels were flushed again. They have functioned perfectly since.

The orthopedist cut away mangled tissue, leaving a two-inch gap between the flesh parts of the leg sections, and then bridged the gap with two inches from the upper leg bone.

All that remains now are skin grafts and an operation within a few months to link the main hip nerve to the lower leg, where at present there is no sensation.

Smith's leg is two inches shorter than before but "better than anything he can buy in a store," the doctors said. After the hip nerve operation, surgeons "expect that he will get some muscle return and some sensation return, but neither will be entirely normal."

HEART ATTACK STRIKES IN MID-PACIFIC

Desperate Run Saves Man's Life

A ship's carpenter is recovering in hospital at Vancouver today after a 10-day struggle by his captain and crew to keep him alive after a heart attack.

Noralf Jorgensen, 47, suffered the attack while the Norwegian freighter Simao, now docked at Crofton, was plowing through heavy seas in the middle of the Pacific Ocean. There was no doctor aboard.

"I've been through emergencies at sea before, but nothing like this one," said Captain Trygve Magdahl, 40, a veteran of 28 years at sea.

"We were in a gale and a man was dying. I was called to Jorgensen's cabin and saw he was very low."

"His pulse was very low—about 45. He was suffering terrible, terrible pains. I was sure he was dying."

"We were in the middle of the ocean. I put through an emergency call to a San Francisco hospital asking for advice... a doctor told me to give him morphine and oxygen. The whole crew worked to save his life. We put a 24-hour watch on him... those first three or four hours looked like he would die."

Capt. Magdahl said he wired for help from any ship with a doctor aboard near the Simao. An American passenger ship 200 miles away was the nearest but the doctor said it would be extremely dangerous to move Jorgensen in the rough seas.

"I thought of going off course to Alaska, but the weather was so bad I decided the wisest thing was to continue to Vancouver."

"The next day, after two shots of morphine, he seemed a little better but was still very poor. We had run out of oxygen—all we had was a little we decided to save in case he had another attack."

The carpenter was taken by ambulance to hospital when the Simao docked at Vancouver Tuesday.

The hospital said today he is in fair condition.

Capt. Magdahl said Jorgensen's condition improved slowly as the 43-man crew took turns watching him and ventilating his cabin as much as possible.

The hospital said today he is in fair condition.

BOYS CHARGED AS VANDALS

Two 15-year-old Colwood boys will be charged Friday with vandalism in connection with a wrecking spree in Victoria Fish and Game clubhouse at Goldstream two weeks ago.

The boys, one of whom is in custody on a charge of breaching the terms of probation for a previously suspended sentence, will appear in Colwood juvenile court.

Tory 'Outsider' Murison Sought To Run in City

Municipal Crusade In Legislature?

Leader of a fight for reform in provincial-municipal fiscal arrangements in B.C., C. A. P. Murison, former reeve of North Cowichan, has been proposed as a Conservative election candidate in Victoria riding, it was learned today.

His election, if he were successful, would give him opportunity to carry his crusade for the municipalities to the floor of the B.C. Legislature.

Although Mr. Murison was attending a meeting at Vancouver today and could not be contacted, the report was confirmed here by a reliable source.

Mr. Murison, who last year stepped down as reeve of North Cowichan, is the only man to have held office as president of the Union of B.C. Municipalities for two consecutive terms. It was in this capacity that he led the battle for greater provincial recognition of municipal problems.

He achieved province-wide publicity for his continued attempts to win cabinet consideration of a new method of sharing provincial and municipal responsibilities to the people. Basically, the proposal he put forward on behalf of a UBCM committee called for the province to accept financial responsibility for services to people—education, health and welfare for instance—and for the municipalities to take over the cost of water supply, sewers, roads, lighting and protective services.

It is understood Victoria Conservatives bank heavily on support for Mr. Murison from municipal officials as well as sections of the electorate who are concerned with the rise in cost of municipal government in recent years.

PRESTIGE CANDIDATE

He would also bring the prestige of an honored name to the hustings. Charles Alexander Phipps Murison, CB, CBE, MC, retired major-general, is a "gentleman farmer" who lives near Duncan. He is known for his community service with cancer campaigns and the Red Cross. He is a past president of the Red Cross at Duncan and a director of the B.C. Cancer Foundation.

A career soldier until his retirement, he was commissioned into the British army directly from McGill University. He was born in Canada at Grenfell, Sask., Oct. 7, 1894. Earlier it was rumored that B.C. finance minister in the wartime coalition government Herbert Anscomb, would be named as a main candidate for Victoria Conservatives.

Party officials here, who refused today either to confirm or deny the report Mr. Murison will run, have yet to set a date for their nominating convention, but it is certain all three Victoria seats will be contested.

Death Claims Sister of Former Envoy to Japan

Mrs. Alice N. Sterling, sister of the Hon. T. C. Davis of Victoria and widow of the late H. J. Sterling, died in St. Joseph's hospital Wednesday night after a week's illness. She was 65.

Mrs. Sterling was the daughter of Senator T. O. Davis and sister of the late W. L. Davis, former owner of the Prince Albert (Sask.) Herald, the Moose Jaw Times and radio station CHAB in Moose Jaw. Her surviving brother in Victoria, T. C. Davis, is the former Canadian Ambassador to China, Japan and Germany, and high commissioner to Australia.

Two sons of a former marriage survive: Hugh Connolly of Vancouver and Thomas O. Connolly of Ross River, Yukon Territory.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at Hayward's. Following cremation, interment will take place in Prince Albert.

NAME FOUND

Trademark First Clue To Wreck

First solid clue to the identity of a ship sunk off the west coast of Vancouver Island many years ago was unearthed by navy investigators today.

Removal of a thick layer of marine growth from the ship's windlass revealed the name of the maker: Tyzac Dobinson & Co.

The windlass and other items of wreckage were recovered by navy divers at Sydney Inlet, south of Nootka Sound, and are now at the RCN's Seaward Defence Base at Esquimalt Harbor.

Various theories about the age and identity of the ship have been advanced, ranging from more than 200 years to 100.

It was at first thought the ship was HMS Condor, which founded in 1901. It is not yet known whether it was of British, American or other construction, but an anchor recovered from the wreck does not appear to be British.

Final Tributes Paid Daughter Of Titled Family

Funeral services were held today at 2:15 p.m. for Mrs. Gladys Gage McCormack, 1725 Beach Drive, who died at home Sunday. She was 68.

Widow of the late Col. Carson McCormack and daughter of the late Sir James and Lady Gage of Toronto, Ont., she was born in Ontario and lived in Victoria for 10 years.

She is survived by three daughters: Mrs. Davidson Gadsby and Mrs. Mary Ketterer of Victoria, and Mrs. Mazo Ireland of Sydney, Australia.

The service was conducted by Rev. A. I. Higgins in Chaplin's Funeral Chapel and interment will be in the family mausoleum, Mount Pleasant Cemetery, Toronto, Ont.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. How many acres of agricultural land has Scotland and of this how much is in use? J.Mc.

A. Scotland has about 15,000,000 agricultural acres. Of this 4,500,000 acres are in crops (mostly oats) and grasses. The remainder is rough grazing ground.

... HERE AND THERE ... With NORMAN CRIBBENS

Christmas seems to come earlier every year.

Already... two local inquiries about recording Christmas greetings. Already, an orange-colored folder depicting the joys of Christmas in California—and a program of Yuletide events at Ye Olde Empress Hotel.

Now a Christmas card posted in England on Oct. 10, and a letter from a magazine editor telling me the deadline for his Christmas issue was Sept. 5!

Back in England after two years in Victoria, Mrs. Chris Phillips, of 1168 Rhoda Lane, complained of feeling "shut in" by the crowds and the traffic.

She had intended spending Christmas with her parents, but after six weeks of looking up friends and relations, flew back to Victoria this week.

"I loved it over there," she says, "yet it's wonderful to be back. Victoria seems almost empty compared with the English cities. You have room to turn round."

A number of Scottish readers have assured me that part of Edinburgh Castle does belong to Canada—or rather Nova Scotia.

It seems that King James the First of England and Scotland sold some baronies to Nova Scotia settlers way back in the 17th century, but didn't want to make the stormy trip across the Atlantic.

So he decreed that part of the esplanade at Edinburgh Castle should be Nova Scotia territory. Thus the king was able to stand on Nova Scotia "soil" while creating the new barons.

For this information I am indebted to Lieut. W. G. Duncan, Malcolm McCall, Mrs. W. E. McMurtrie, Harry Wood (a former president of the Dickens Fellowship in Victoria), and others.

When the director of a big New Zealand newspaper came to Victoria I thought: "Now here is a man who will have something to say to the press."

Quite wrong.

"No thanks, old man," he said, "I don't want any of that newspaper stuff. I'm here for a holiday."

"What do you think of Victoria as a holiday resort?"

"That's just the point," he replied, "I'm not thinking and I don't want to be interviewed. Good night, old man!"

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Owner of a car involved in a two-car collision at Humboldt and Douglas, Saturday, was incorrectly identified as driver at the time. The car, operated by Ben Grossman, 507 Simcoe, was unoccupied and parked at a meter when an auto driven by Frank Dobie, 3795 Duke, backed into it, causing an estimated $600 damage and giving his passenger Mrs. Dobie a hand cut.

"Old Boys" of St. Mark's Anglican Church of Vancouver, now resident on Vancouver Island, are being invited to attend the 50th anniversary celebrations of the church this weekend.

Bishop Arthur Sovereign will preach on Sunday. On Monday evening at 8 p.m. a Campers' Reunion will be held in the church hall.

Greater Victoria Community Chest moved closer towards its $325,000 objective today with a total of just over $210,000. Returns from 100 areas in the residential canvass, extending from Sooke to Sidney, reached $50,000.

Capital Improvement District Commission chairman J. Everett Brown today declined comment on rumors that a $40,000 improvement of Douglas between Battery and Superior will be recommended to the cabinet.

The CIDC met Tuesday afternoon. Among proposals advanced by city delegate was the Douglas Street project, rejected four times before by the government.

Mr. Brown said the commission would make its recommendations to the provincial cabinet next week.

Mayor Percy Scourah today presented a commemorative plaque to round-the-world yachtsman John Guzzwell for "a wonderful feat of seamanship, courage and stamina." The bronze plaque, mounted on a teak base, will be fastened to the cabin of the 23-foot sloop Trekka in which he sailed single-handed around the globe in four years. The wood could be found only in the shop in which he is a woodworker.

The young seaman actually prepared the teak base without knowing who it was for, the mayor revealed.

He will leave for Australia Sunday to be married and plans to return here next year.

Winners of the weekly tournament of the Victoria Duplicate Bridge Club were: North South—1 and 2 (tied), Ethel Cleworth, Jack Goldie, George Metcalfe, Wilmet Brown-Cave, 3, Otto Leesment, Sam Dupreau, 4, Harry Brown, Eric Goodwin, 5, Marjorie Crockett, Freda Sniall.

East West—1, Simon Marinker, Frank Artlett, 2, Margo Thieberger, Peter Bousfield, 3, Lou Duncan, Fred Hallett, 4, Dorothy McConnell, Dick Lipsey, 5, Lillian Goodwin, Isabel Artlett.

CRUELTY MARS HALLOWEEN

Heartless children are blamed for the first act of cruelty involving firecrackers and an animal reported to the SPCA this Halloween season.

Inspector Clifford Ladd of Victoria SPCA said a group of children taped a firecracker to the back of a small white cat and touched it off in the North Douglas area Wednesday night.

"But you know how it is with children. How can we catch them?" he said. An investigation is being made, however.

GAPING HOLE was left in fence when car in background crashed into Richmond Road front yard after going some 100 feet out of control in collision with another car. Drivers were jolted, not hurt, but damage was heavy. (Times photo by Halkett).

ON HIS WAY HOME from hospital today after twice cheating death in highway crashes, Chris Morgan, 22, of 406 Quebec, says he does not want to buy his own car. Riding with friends is hazardous enough. He was one of three to survive when two cars crashed early Sunday near Mill Bay, killing both drivers. Three months ago, Morgan escaped a crash which killed a friend who drove a borrowed sports car off the Sooke Road. (Times photo by Strickland.)

Woman Fights Fire When Gas Thrown

Mrs. T. Baker, 17 Boyd, tried her hand at firefighting when someone threw gasoline on her steps and touched it off Wednesday evening.

She called police and had the fire out when they arrived.

Motel Being Built In City May Be $1 Million Project

A 48-unit motel is being built in Victoria and a larger drive-in hotel may also be constructed by the same firm, an American hotel chain.

Vickery Construction Ltd. today confirmed it is the subcontractor for a 48-unit motel being built at 3045 Douglas. A spokesman said the work was being done for city contractor Derryck Jackson but wouldn't divulge the amount of the no-bid contract.

Spectacular Crash At 'Bad' Crossing

A stop sign post and wooden fence pickets scattered like tinspins when they were bowled over by two cars out of control from a collision at Richmond and Leighton at 10:50 a.m.

Both drivers escaped with only shaking up, but were taken to hospital for check-ups.

Neighbors said the intersection is "a bad one," the scene of numerous crashes and a few years ago resulted in a traffic death.

Police identified the drivers as 76-year-old James Braidwood, 902 Foul Bay, who drove west on Leighton, and H. N. McIntyre, 44, of 941 Lawndale, whose car was going south on Richmond.

HIS FIRST MISHAP

"I couldn't believe it when this car came out and we hit," said McIntyre, a chief petty officer in the RCN who has never had a traffic accident until today.

His car was bounced up onto the sidewalk and the older driver's car glanced off and continued going over sidewalk, boulevard, picket fence and lawn at the home of Mrs. Leigh Large, 1624 Richmond.

It left deep tire marks in the grass and scattered broken pickets and car parts over the yard before it stopped against a tree about

Montrealer Admits Phony Cheque Guilt

A Montreal man pleaded guilty to 20 charges connected with counterfeit travellers' cheques in Vancouver Wednesday as police expressed fears that thousands of bogus $50 cheques may have been passed in cities throughout western Canada.

Thomas Francis Berrigan, 34, was remanded to Friday for sentence after he pleaded guilty to dealing, attempting to deal, and uttering counterfeit travellers' cheques.

It has not been ascertained if Berrigan was responsible for passing forged cheques in Victoria and Nanaimo. There were unofficial reports that phony cheques had been passed in the two cities for a total of $10,000.

BANKS ON WATCH

Police said he was arrested Friday after a man attempted to pass six travellers' cheques at a Vancouver bank.

Detectives earlier had been told to watch for a man who fled from a bank in suburban Burnaby when a clerk became suspicious because one of the cheques in his book was not signed.

Police said 150 counterfeit cheques bearing the same serial number and described as "almost perfect forgeries" have since been reported in Edmonton. Police in Winnipeg seized 90 and RCMP in Nanaimo have seized 10.

Fraud detectives said the cheques, made with a copy machine and drawn on the Bank of Nova Scotia at St. Catharines and Peel in Montreal, are recognizable as phony only because they lack watermarks.

LITTLE SWIMMER ADDS HER BIT TO 'ARCHIE APPRECIATION FUND'

A little girl in the beginners' swimming class at the YMCA Wednesday gave five cents to the "Archie McKinnon Appreciation Fund," bringing the total today to $835.05.

The money will finance a convalescent trip for the YMCA physical director, badly injured 15 days ago during a water comedy act in the Crystal Garden.

The fund was started as a token of appreciation for the 63-year-old athlete who has contributed greatly to the health and development for many years of Greater Victoria children.

Kettles—Easy to Clean
With This Solution!

By PENNY SAVER

Looked at the inside of your kitchen kettle lately? If it's in need of de-scaling there's a solution on the market that will make cleaning easy. Just fill the kettle with one quart of warm water, add contents of a 49-cent bottle of the solution and leave for one hour.

Rinse thoroughly with cold water and neutralize by boiling a kettle of water with one teaspoon of baking soda. That's all there is to it!

There's also a solution that cleans your steam iron. The iron cleaner comes in bottles priced at $1. One bottle contains enough for four cleanings. No excuse now for rust on your best linens!

While on the subject of cleaning, your furniture upholstery may take a beating from youthful goblins during the Halloween season. If it does, don't worry about high cleaning bills.

For just $2.98 you can get a 12-ounce can of shampoo and sponge rubber and bristle applicator. This foam shampoo dries very quickly and doesn't soak your fabric.

One can contains enough shampoo to clean a chesterfield and two chairs.

Windy weather and wearing of sweaters and warm woolen garments can sometimes cause dry and irritated skins. I've found a bath oil that not only soothes—it heals at the same time!

Pour about one tablespoon in your bath at night and you'll soon notice the difference. Skin oil is also good for babies. Reduce measure to one teaspoon per bath.

For information on any of these items phone Penny at EV 2-3131.

Here's Secret
Flower Shows

RIDGETOWN, Ont. (CP)—Advice on how to grow flowers and win prizes at flower shows is given by Mrs. C. P. Duck, who has been exhibiting at Ridgetown's annual fair for 25 years and who won nine ribbons this year.

Mrs. Duck said the secret of a winning rose entry for instance is in the picking. A rose should be picked as it starts to bud, and kept in the refrigerator until it is entered as an exhibit.

A thorough gardener at nearby Morpeth, about 40 miles south of St. Thomas, Mrs. Duck waters her garden heavily twice a week and weeds it daily. She regularly sprays it for insects and once a year applies commercial fertilizer.

She has 40 different kinds of flowers and bushes. The largest flower bed borders 200 feet of the driveway from the highway to the house. Her daughter Helene, a school teacher, provides most of the garden labor force.

Mrs. Duck and her daughter say they learn a lot at the flower shows every year.

With right "treats" you can be most popular mother in the district.

juice, maraschino cherry juice and grapefruit juice. Pour over ice in large punch bowl. Add 2 large bottles pale dry ginger ale. Stir gently to mix. Garnish with several thin slices of orange, each decorated to look like a Jack-O'-Lantern face with whole cloves and bits of maraschino cherries.

DEAR ABBY...

You'll Be Sorry!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My problem has been getting me down. I have been dating a young man who means nothing to me. He says he loves me. I have told him honestly I like him only as a friend. I feel guilty letting him spend his money on me but he begs me to go out with him anyway. When I turn him down (I date others, too) he cries and it breaks my heart. He calls me every single day! He knows I go with him because I feel sorry for him, but he says he is living in hopes that one day I will love him like he loves me. I am 20 and he is 23. When I kiss him good night, I gag.

SORRY FOR HIM.

DEAR SORRY: No self-respecting, healthy-minded person behaves like this young man. Beware! He's the kind who waits patiently for the opportunity to move in with the heavy artillery should you weaken or find yourself on the "rebound." Girls who go with men because they "feel sorry for them" usually wind up feeling sorrier for themselves. Send him on his way. He'll live.

DEAR ABBY: I am a man who has done a hitch in the navy and has been around quite a bit. I am 33 and have been going with a woman who is 29. I like a woman to be honest with me as we talked over our past lives out-in-the-open like, I told her about my past and then she commenced to tell me about hers. At first she said there were only three men in her life! This didn't bother me much because I figured it was average. Every time we get on the subject she brings up another one. The total is now up to 11. I am very upset about this and wonder if maybe she is not the girl for me. What do you advise?

BEEN AROUND.
DEAR BEEN: If she gets to 12—sell!

DEAR ABBY: I am a senior at college so you know I'm no moron. I've been dating this girl who is engaged to a man who goes to another college. I know for a fact that this girl thinks more of me than she does her fiancé. I can tell by the way she kisses me. My problem is she won't admit it. She won't do anything about it (like send her ring back). But I know she'd like to. How can I get her to break off with the other guy and be all mine? FLIPPED.

DEAR FLIPPED: (and I think you have!) Do you realize that you are fighting for the "love" of a girl who is engaged to one man and romancing with another? If you think a wedding ring would stop her circulation, you'd better think again. Take a good look at her in daylight.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SEC. RET SIX": The girl says "HI" first.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

As wrinkles creep into your face, stave off their progress with home treatment. Keep your skin moist as possible, use mild soap and wash your face less frequently.

How tempting it is to drop into bed without scrubbing your face! You may get by with this once or twice but as a regular habit it spells trouble. Old make-up clogs the pores and leads to unsightly blemishes. And lipstick left on overnight can make lips dry.

On a trim figure, a two-piece suit is fine. But if you're less than trim, better pick a one-piece suit for a sleek look.

When planning hors d'oeuvres, remember that a whole No. 1 tall can of ripe olives contains less than 400 calories. And what well-flavored calories they are!

Official Navy 'Mother' Helps Men Fit Into Right Environment

By PAT DUFOUR

The navy may be a man's life but it's frequently a woman that guides the men of the RCN's Pacific Coast Command when they stand in need of counselling.

Their official "mother" is Lieut. (W) Mavis Mallabone, personnel selection officer in HMCS Naden.

Her west coast appointment, which started in January, followed a similar post in Halifax.

She conducts interviews with new entries into the service, officer candidates, men wishing to transfer to other branches, or, for any reason, in danger of becoming "square pegs in a round hole."

Aptitude tests are part of the program.

This slim, dark-haired young woman is well equipped to handle what many would describe as an unusual job for a woman. Having obtained her degree in education from University of Alberta (course included a solid grounding in the philosophies and psychology) she attended Acadia University while stationed in Halifax in order to train in testing, interviewing, social and abnormal psychology.

Do men object to unbundling themselves to a woman? "Sometimes," says Lieut. Mallabone. "But although they may be suspicious at first they soon react normally once they find they have a sympathetic audience. Then I become just another 'mother'!"

CURES HOMESICKNESS

One example is a young recruit who came in front of her, homesick for his native Toronto, and determined to keep "mum". To each of her questions he replied with a non-committal "Yes" or "No".

Mavis found a key to the dilemma when she hit upon the subject of cars. Her taciturn subject responded instantly. It turned out that he was an avid "hot rodder."

"When he left my office, three-quarters of an hour later, he told me that he had heard other men discussing these interviews and had made up his mind that he wouldn't open up."

Prior to joining Canada's armed forces, Mavis had been a member of the women's naval service in England. A "yen" to travel had taken her to the British Isles and she decided to join the forces in order to prolong her stay. Working in the field of education, she started as a Wren and completed her service as a petty officer.

One of her first breaks came when her station's drama club decided to put on "The Man Who Came to Dinner."

"They needed someone with a Canadian or American as they called it accent to play the lead part of Lorraine. I got the part."

UNIFORM HELPED

Determined to see as much of the country as she could she spent many of her weekends hitch-hiking.

"I found that my messmates were not overly anxious to travel around at first," she recalls, "but they soon began to enjoy it. We always hitch-hiked in uniform. Drivers in England would never pick up a woman ordinarily but they knew that we were probably 'broke' and trying to get back to base. As soon as they found out that I was a Canadian they were just marvellous. We received all sorts of invitations to have meals and stay with them on holidays."

An amusing recollection of Lieut. Mallabone is time she was caught "peeking" by Prince Philip. She had formed part of a Wren guard that flanked the royal red carpet for the Royal Tournament at Earl's Court, London.

Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip had passed their contingent and were moving down towards the royal box. Mavis made up her mind to get a better view.

CAUGHT "PEEPING"

Standing up on a chair she was caught off guard when the royal consort turned back and discovered her. "I must have stood out like a sore thumb but he just flashed me a huge grin."

"Will she stay in the service? Lieut. Mallabone hasn't yet made up her mind."

"We can't stay in one field. I may find myself doing something totally different on my next tour of duty."

Should she decide to re-enter "civvy street" her ambition is to go back to teaching, preferably as a school counselor.

Lieut. (W) Mavis Mallabone

Trio of Tory Women No 'Nonsense Gals'

LONDON (UPI)—The newly re-elected Conservatives have put three women into high government posts, but don't go looking for any petticoat government.

These are no-nonsense gals. Take red-haired glamor girl Pat Hornsby-Smith, one of the three. She was once mistaken for a streetwalker by a prostitute in London's exclusive Mayfair section.

"Get the hell off my beat," the girl told her.

"Do you know those buildings?" responded Pat calmly, pointing to nearby Saville Row.

"One," she said, "is the ministry of health where I earn an honest living (she was then parliamentary secretary for the ministry of health). The other is the Saville Row police station where you will end up if I have any more of your cheek."

This response was typical of the attitude which has propelled Pat and her Tory colleagues Miss Mervyn Pike and Miss Edith Pitt into political prominence.

Respectively, they have been appointed joint parliamentary secretary in the ministry of pensions, assistant postmaster-general and parliamentary secretary for the ministry of health.

None is married. All have been able to devote full-time to politics. They have been extremely successful.

Forty-five-year-old Pat started politicking at the age of 17 when she left school and joined the young Conservatives.

She stood as Tory member of parliament in the constituency of Christchurch in 1950 and squeaked into office by a mere 167 votes.

But in 1951 she bagged a Conservative majority of 980 and in 1955 one of 3,870.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

That Protruding Tummy Affects You Three Ways

The condition of your abdominal muscles has a much greater effect on your life than you may realize. In fact, it has a three-way impact—not a three-way stretch, I hope, as some girdles have!

In the first place we all know that a protruding abdomen spoils an otherwise youthful figure and can make a matronly figure look much more so. In the second place this makes a woman feel older. This factor is most important because not only are her glands affected but her very life in many varied and subtle ways. It influences her outlook, activities and personality.

In the third place lax abdominal muscles affect health. Nature provided us with a natural girdle of strong abdominal muscles but too often we allow these to become lax because of poor posture, lack of exercise and childbearing. Then internal organs slump and cause constipation, fatigue and sometimes backache.

An awareness of good posture and an effort to maintain it (which is a good exercise in itself) plus special abdominal exercises, will correct weak, protruding abdominal muscles. Remember that active muscles discourage the accumulation of fat over them.

Here are a couple of good toner-uppers.

1. Lie on the floor on your back with your legs straight and your arms resting on the floor at your sides. Lift your left leg as you lift your head from the floor. Shoulders remain on the floor. Lower leg and head to the floor simultaneously. This time raise your right leg at the same time you lift your head. Lower both to the floor. The knees are straight throughout the exercise.

If your muscles are strong enough raise both legs from the floor as you lift your head and return both when head lowers to the floor. Continue. This is a good neck exercise also.

2. Lie on the floor on your back, arms at sides. Lift both legs up from the floor as you raise your arms forward and raise your trunk half way up. Hold for a few moments and return to starting position. Continue.

If you would like my tested abdominal exercises, which will decrease that measurement a few inches in a few weeks' time, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 2. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

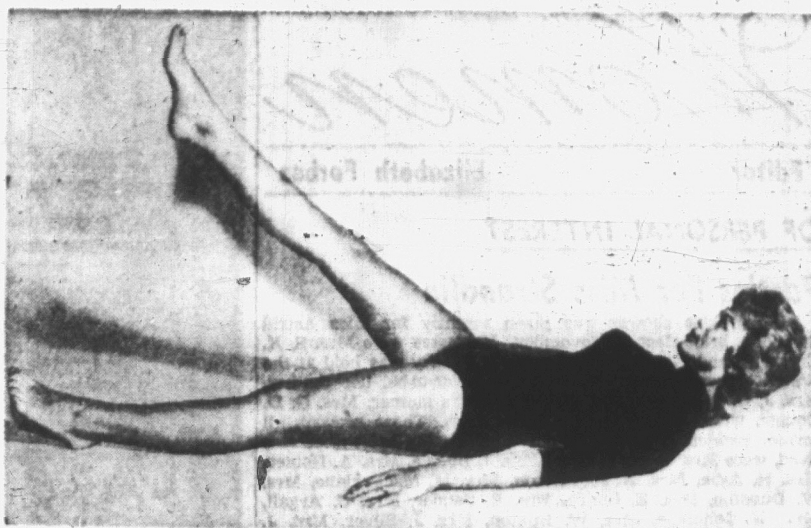

Cat's Protection League Handles 6,000 Requests

Over 6,000 requests for advice and assistance were received by the Cat's Protection League during the past year, the annual meeting was told. Reports also indicated that good progress was being made in controlling the number of surplus cats through a scientific program of neutering, and disposal of newborn kittens.

Officers elected for the coming year are: Mrs. I. D. Woods, president; Miss W. E. Hughes, first vice-president; Miss F. M. Bell, second vice-president; Mrs. I. M. Kirby, treasurer; Mrs. J. Ward, recording secretary; Mrs. T. W. Kerswell, corresponding secretary.

Studies Sculpture

BROCKVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Elsbet Wilson, a Brockville sculptor who won distinction with a model of a rooster, is going to Denmark in the fall to study for a year at the Royal Danish Academy.

Teen-age Marriages Where are they sleeping tonight?

They just got married this morning. Where will they sleep tonight? It hadn't crossed their minds. What will they do for money? They hadn't thought of it. Are they in love? Oh yes. Violently. Passionately. What's in their future? Loneliness and tragedy. Who is to blame? YOU! No social problem in America today is more frightening than the rapid rise in teen marriages. No family is exempt from the bitter consequences. The current issue of McCall's tells why teen-agers marry, why their marriages fail, how to avoid premature marriages or save them when they become a reality. Now, today, read the incredible, documented facts in November-McCall's. On sale at all newsstands.

LOUISE DAVIS.

ON ETIQUETTE

IS HOSTESS SERVED FIRST?

My husband and I are planning to entertain with a semi-formal dinner party for six couples, and I have engaged a caterer for the occasion. There is one thing I have never been sure about. Is the hostess served first or last? Would it be better for that number of people to have an extra girl or could one do it sufficiently?

Louise Davis Answers:

The hostess is served last for twelve people. I think you would be more satisfied to have the extra girl for your party will go more smoothly.

and the extra cost won't be exorbitant. There is much to do, both in the kitchen and at the table. With two, the serving would be quicker and will stay twice as hot.

TYPEWRITTEN CONDOLENCES

Is it ever proper to write a letter of condolence on the typewriter on business stationery? I received one such, from a business woman, and I did think she could have taken the time to write it in long-hand on her own paper.

Louise Davis Answers:

The typewritten letter of condolence was better than no letter at all, for the sentiment was expressed and that was most important. However, with such a message, a typed note on business stationery seems so cold and impersonal.

COMMON BOND BRINGS WOMEN TOGETHER

ATIKOKAN, Ont. (CP)—"I'm looking to the women of the world to encourage peace," Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland industrialist and sponsor of forums of prominent thinkers, said in an interview here.

His wife, accompanying him on a business trip, agreed with her husband and elaborated: "Women have a common bond and, of course, it's their children."

She said she didn't suppose that women by themselves could achieve peace throughout the world, but she said she believed "they could certainly have a great effect."

Bread should be buttered generously and avoid soggy in frozen sandwiches.

Oilmen of New Frontier Battle Mud, Frost

This is the fifth in a series of seven articles on Canada's Northland by Erik Watt, Winnipeg newspaperman who has been studying the Arctic for many years and who recently completed a trip down the Mackenzie River.

By ERIK WATT

Fork-lift trucks on caterpillar tracks shivered up the greasy bank with their loads of bagged sawdust, drilling mud, cement, canned goods, electrical connections, fuel drums.

Each load jangled off and tumbled down the sliding pile atop the bank, and rain-soaked roughnecks leaped nimbly out of the way.

The rig Radium Charles, a 25-ton crawler, heaved to the crest of a 100-foot cliff, as big D-7 tractors moved into position to hoist and carry above the crown the upper section of the 12-foot high drilling rig, "H", which had been hoisted aboard in 1400 feet, 800 river miles to the south two weeks earlier.

Here, in a silent wilderness, miles above the Arctic circle of the Mackenzie River, a new frontier was coming into being.

Watt

Knowledge in places, and deep everywhere. Beyond that, the south-sloping peninsula posed a cross and an obstacle to dignity and limbs.

You think about things like broken legs and arms when you are 100 miles north of Fort Good Hope, the nearest settlement, your radio still working because of the atmospheric conditions which plague northern communities, the your rig and the ambition which flow your in is grounded by, but weather at Norman Wells, another 135 miles up river from Good Hope.

New Race

This wasn't the frontier of men like Harry Johnson, whose abandoned Little Chicago trading post is four miles downstream. It was the frontier of a new race of pioneers, the oilmen, and like most frontiers, this one was losing no time in testing the mettle of the men sent to conquer it.

The mud was the worst.

Car Parking Lot Owner Must Quit Courthouse Site

Operator of a commercial parking lot located on the site of the proposed new Victoria courthouse, on the 100th Street, has been asked to quit the site. Not 45, it was learned today.

The action will place 150 cars now in off-street area during the day back on the street, operation Jack Phinon said. He will meet with Public Works Minister W. N. Chant on the possibility the lot may be kept in operation longer than the deadline date, possibly in part at least, during construction.

The land is leased from the province.

Works Minister Chant said it is planned to begin excavations for the five-story courthouse early in December. The new courthouse project will include provision for parking 350 cars.

Great Slave Lake, for transport to the barges.

All told, the 1,700-ton load had travelled 1,800 miles, and it wouldn't be going back.

For in a crawler's business, northern oil is the biggest market of all. Once you get equipment like this into the Northwest Territories, you either strike it rich or lose your shirt. Getting it out again is such a costly procedure it isn't worth while to try.

Little Chicago No. 1 will be drilled 15 miles inland from the river this winter by Peter Bowden, Drilling Co., Fort Smith, Rainbow Oils of Calgary and associates. It will be the first test hole ever sunk in Canada and a lot of people will be waiting to see what happens here.

Freeze-Up Near

But this was for the future. There was freeze-up in the air this late September day, a bite to the north wind which left little doubt that the short Arctic summer was not to be with us long.

There was a special urgency in the way the crew of the Charles worked to get the unloading completed. They had been at it all day the day before, they arrived and they would work through this night until noon the next day to finish. Then the Charles would churn upstream to her winter anchorage at Horn River, 50 miles north of Great Slave Lake, provided the river stayed open for the 10 days the trip would take, and her crew would be flying home for the winter.

No such prospect lay ahead for toolpusher Douglas Parker and his 25-man Bowden crew. To them, freeze-up would only be the beginning.

"We'll have to build a winter road into the site, first," Parker said. "With luck the ground will be fairly solid by the beginning of November, and we can start then."

73 Below Zero

"Once we've got the road we can bring in the drilling crew. There'll be three shifts of five men each: a geologist, the cooks, a mechanic, a camp attendant, about 25 men in all by the time you count the pilots and everyone else. The river ice should be thick enough for planes to start landing by Dec. 1; we should be all set to go by the middle of the month at the latest."

"How long will it take?" That's a good question. We drilled 10,000 feet at Fox Creek in Alberta in 30 days, and I know of another rig at Edson, in the Alberta foothills, which took nine months to make 9,000 feet.

It all depends on the formation. You've got to remember this is an experimental deal the whole way through.

We've got fuel and supplies for three months. After that...

The rigors of the Arctic winter aren't expected to be as miserable as the mud of the Arctic fall, though Fort Good Hope recorded a low of 73 below zero last year. We'll keep steam in the mud pump which cools the drilling bit and brings the tailings to the surface, so it doesn't freeze. If we hit nothing but permafrost, drilling should be easy.

In the Head

"One thing we do know, drilling here won't be any worse than winter drilling in northern Alberta. A lot of the terrors of Arctic drilling are all in the head."

Four members of the drilling crew will be Eskimos, the first Eskimo roughnecks in Canada. "They catch on fast," said Parker. "We had them with us on a rig in the Swan Hills in Alberta, and they got along fine."

"We'll have more Eskimos working in the north soon, too. The company's going to train them this winter. After all, this is their country and they are used to it."

Parker glanced distastefully at his mud-caked boots. "If it was this rough near Calgary, you'd shut down. It doesn't matter if the sun shines or it rains, you've still got mud. Still, once it freezes we've got a super highway."

"And when we get that mud up," he grinned, "we'll have the tallest tree in the forest."

4 FIREMEN SNATCHED FROM FLAMING ROOF

MONTREAL (CP) — Four firemen narrowly escaped injury early today when they were snatched from the blazing roof of a three-storey building in east-end Montreal.

The four — Lieut. M. Marchand, J. G. Fournier, M. Perrault, and F. Mantha — were fighting a fire in the top storey of the building when a sudden explosion sent smoke and flames shooting through the roof and 100 feet in the air.

Driven to the edge of the roof by the flames they teetered over the street while other firemen manoeuvred aerial ladders into position for the rescue.

MOSCOW HAS MOVIE HIT

K. Steals Show In Film of Trip

MOSCOW (UPI) — Moscow has a smash movie hit on its hands today and the man who steals the show is none other than Nikita Sergeyevich Khrushchev.

There are prominent Americans in the movie — Frank Sinatra, Marilyn Monroe and President Eisenhower — but they are just upstaged bit players.

Khrushchev's first full-length color film opened in two dozen theatres in Moscow and getting tickets is as difficult as it was the first year "My Fair Lady" burst upon the New York scene.

The superglossy production "N. S. Khrushchev in America" has everything from humor to a luscious closeup of Miss Monroe.

But the hero is provided with comedy relief; former Roswell Garst of Iowa being chased by reporters through cornfields. This scene brought hearty laughter from the Russian audience during the performance I managed to elbow my way into.

HAPPY ENDING

The film has a happy ending. Our hero receives an ovation at the United Nations. He returns home to the cheers of the multitude.

The sets of this movie are magnificent — astonishing skyscrapers, gleaming funny automobiles, waving fields of corn. Thousands of extras — Americans on the streets — played their roles capably in stunning costumes.

To an American reporter in Moscow they look nostalgically faraway and very foreign indeed.

Apparently these Americans live in skyscrapers, as their houses are never seen. When Khrushchev's train was en route to San Francisco, the camera concentrated on the Pacific Ocean on the other side of the railroad.

SIMPLE PLOT

The plot is fairly simple: boy loves girl (the ordinary American people); boy tries to win girl but the pair is kept apart by the villains (American police). Girl loves boy, so boy wins girl.

We first see the local fellow leaving home to fly overseas to the big city. Americans in Washington and New York reach out hands, smile, snap photos, cheer and applaud.

But those police!

Stern-faced, arguing with each other, pushing people behind barricades.

Tragedy stalks our hero in Los Angeles.

The major refused to tell the people where Khrushchev can be seen. Palm-lined streets are almost empty except for a few sunbrowned characters in shorts.

All the hero gets to do is meet Sinatra and Shirley MacLaine in a lovey dovey. (The can-can dance which the Rus-

THIS WORLD OF OURS

People and Things

STANSTEAD ABBOTTS, Eng.—Ninety-four-year-old Archie Miller will be buried Friday in handsome oak coffin he polished himself, often napped in and once had himself photographed in.

He bought the coffin 34 years ago and kept it in a garden shed. Every day he would give it a shine. The brass nameplate and handles were kept wrapped in tissue paper.

Mrs. Kathleen Tew, who kept house for him, reported: "Mr. Miller was fond of that coffin. He often took a nap in it in the afternoons and once had his photograph taken lying in it to see how he would look."

TUCSON, Ariz.—Thomas V. McHugh, 37, hit and killed a cow while driving home. Then the real action started.

Two bulls, horns lowered, charged the car and demolished it.

McHugh was treated for a scalp cut.

LONDON — Jayne Mansfield's curves figured unexpectedly in a parliamentary debate on economics Wednesday.

Labor member Harold Wilson, urging bigger appropriations for scientific research, told the House of Commons: "The Soviets photographed the reverse side of the moon. The summit of Western achievement seems to be to photograph the reverse side of Jayne Mansfield."

Wilson was referring to widely published photos of the Hollywood actress, now making a movie here, as she emerged backwards from an automobile.

TORONTO — A couple of "boo-boos" in last year's edition of the Social Register have been corrected in this year's edition which appears today, publisher David B. Crombie said today.

He said omission of the name of Maj.-Gen. George Vanier, Canada's new governor-general, was one "boo-bo" in the 1958 edition. Another was leaving out Defence Minister Pearkes.

STOKE-ON-TRENT, England (UPI)—Mrs. Brian Doyle gave birth to Susan Margaret Doyle but that wasn't the baby she brought home from the hospital.

She said she wondered why "Susan Margaret's" hair had grown so much when she was handed the baby to take home

William Maude Moore, 226 Stormont, has been appointed as returning officer for the village incorporation plebiscite in View Royal.

The vote will be held Nov. 26 between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. About 1,700 persons live in the 1,050-acre area bounded by:

Trans-Canada Highway to the Saanich boundary on the east, along Portage Inlet, the Gorge, Garthland Road, Craigflower, Admirals, Hollowell, Esquimalt Harbor, to a point slightly beyond Parson's Bridge and then in a northerly direction to the Trans-Canada Highway.

The United States Army and Air Force have about 4,000 trained dogs on active duty as guards at bases around the world.

Along with return of the $5,000, Victoria Hotel Co. also claimed five per cent interest on the sum, and costs.

The hotel company's original claim was dismissed in B.C. Supreme Court by Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane last August.

The B.C. Appeal Court Wednesday dismissed the company's appeal against Mr. Justice Macfarlane's judgment.

"We have listened with care to counsel's submissions and we remain unconvinced that the learned trial judge erred in his findings," said Mr. Justice C. H. O'Halloran, presiding over the Appeal Court.

John McConnell appeared for Victoria Hotel Co. Ltd. John D. Taggart and John McAlpine were counsel for W. E. Sherlock Co. Ltd.

TORY MPs Howled Down

VANCOUVER (CP) — More than 2,500 civil servants attending a mass "salary rally" here Wednesday night silenced two Progressive Conservative members of parliament with thundering boos and catcalls.

Ernest J. Broome (Vancouver South) and John Drysdale (Burnaby-Richmond) went to the platform after keynote speaker J. Cal Best, of Ottawa, president of the Civil Service Association, addressed the meeting.

Mr. Drysdale said if civil servants employed a system of collective bargaining under compulsory arbitration it would leave parliament in the position of not being able to control spending on the civil service payroll.

Attempts to elaborate on the remark were drowned out.

"I want you to know there has been sincerity on both sides," said Mr. Broome, Howled of derisive laughter and catcalls greeted the remark.

He added that Finance Minister Fleming was sincere in his reasons for not granting a pay increase to civil servants. Shouts, laughs and catcalls followed.

"I stand here as a representative of your employers, the government of Canada, and have come here to listen to you. Why can't you listen to me?" he said.

Mr. Best said the national joint action committee hoped to start a groundswell of public opinion which would force a full parliamentary debate on the issue.

"We are not going to keep the kid gloves on any longer."

The rally endorsed a resolution asking Vancouver locals of the Civil Service Federation and the Civil Service Association to support an earlier policy statement which said civil servants were against strike action.

The meeting later passed an amendment to the resolution that strike action be withheld until parliament discusses the issue in January.

Underground Wiring Work Resumes Here

The B.C. Electric underground wiring program is back in full swing following settlement of a jurisdictional dispute involving sub-contractor Hume and Rumble Ltd. and the electrical workers' union.

Farmer Construction, contractor for this year's excavation work, reported that all 30 men are back at work and the project is "going at full speed."

Spokesmen for Hume and Rumble and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers confirmed that the dispute had been settled but declined further comment.

The dispute involved an argument over whether or not working agreements required three "outside" electrical workers to install ducts in the excavations.

As a result of the dispute, work was slowed and about 20 construction workers were taken off the job until the settlement.

Hotel Firm Loses $5,000 Claim Against Agents

A claim for $5,000, said to have been paid as commission on the contemplated sale of Victoria's Churchill Hotel on Government Street, was dismissed by the B.C. Court of Appeal Wednesday afternoon.

The money was alleged to have been deposited with the agents, W. E. Sherlock Co. Ltd., when the hotel was put up for sale for $275,000 in 1957.

After the deal fell through, Victoria Hotel Co. Ltd., 530 Bastion, sought return of the $5,000 commission. The agents refused, saying the money was owed to them and that it had been earned.

Along with return of the $5,000, Victoria Hotel Co. also claimed five per cent interest on the sum, and costs.

The hotel company's original claim was dismissed in B.C. Supreme Court by Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane last August.

The B.C. Appeal Court Wednesday dismissed the company's appeal against Mr. Justice Macfarlane's judgment.

"We have listened with care to counsel's submissions and we remain unconvinced that the learned trial judge erred in his findings," said Mr. Justice C. H. O'Halloran, presiding over the Appeal Court.

John McConnell appeared for Victoria Hotel Co. Ltd. John D. Taggart and John McAlpine were counsel for W. E. Sherlock Co. Ltd.

from Campbell River was made here Tuesday by Claude L. Harrison, former Victoria mayor, in an address to Alberni Ratepayers' Association.

He listed the Jordan River and Tofino roads as examples of improper development, which did not take advantage of scenic attractions.

He also advised Alberni Valley residents to press for a road connection to Courtenay via Beaver Creek, Comox Lake and Cumberland.

"I think you will find that only a few miles need be constructed along Comox Lake, and then this city will have a most profitable circular route to the upper part of the island," he said.

His final point was that all roads built should be declared government roads, and be open at all times to the travelling public without gates, "locked or otherwise."

For the northern road he suggested a route from Upper Campbell Lake to Heber River, then up the Gold River to Metchulat Lake and Nimpkish River, and finally across Kulpala River and via Cluslawe River to Port McNeill.

"Such a route as outlined will bring through Port McNeill to Vancouver Island an immense trade from the north islands and province," Mr. Harrison said, "and should be obtained at once."

Bank Rate Up

OTTAWA (CP) — The Bank of Canada interest rate today rose to 5.27 per cent from 5.18 last week with the sale of $115,000,000 in 91-day government treasury bills.

The increase followed a steady five-week decline that had dropped the rate by almost a full point between Sept. 17 and Oct. 22.

WHO BELIEVES BENNETT ON DEBT?

'Skeptical B.C. Looks for Joker'

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Tax Journal says British Columbians are inclined to disbelieve the provincial government's claims that it is debt-free.

"They are forever pointing out that there is a joke up the premier's (Premier Bennett's) sleeve," says the Journal, official publication of the Canadian Tax Foundation, with headquarters in Toronto.

The Journal's editorial section entitled fact and opinion, says Mr. Bennett's government has conducted a well-planned publicity campaign to put across the idea of a debt-free provincial treasury.

But it says that British Columbians point to the joker in Mr. Bennett's sleeve by saying that "while technically he has relieved the province of its direct debt he has been running up a bill for over $400,000,000 of indirect debt through the guarantee of bonds of government and other agencies.

"These include the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, the B.C. Power Commission, the toll bridges and highway authority and also include indebtedness of local boards of education."

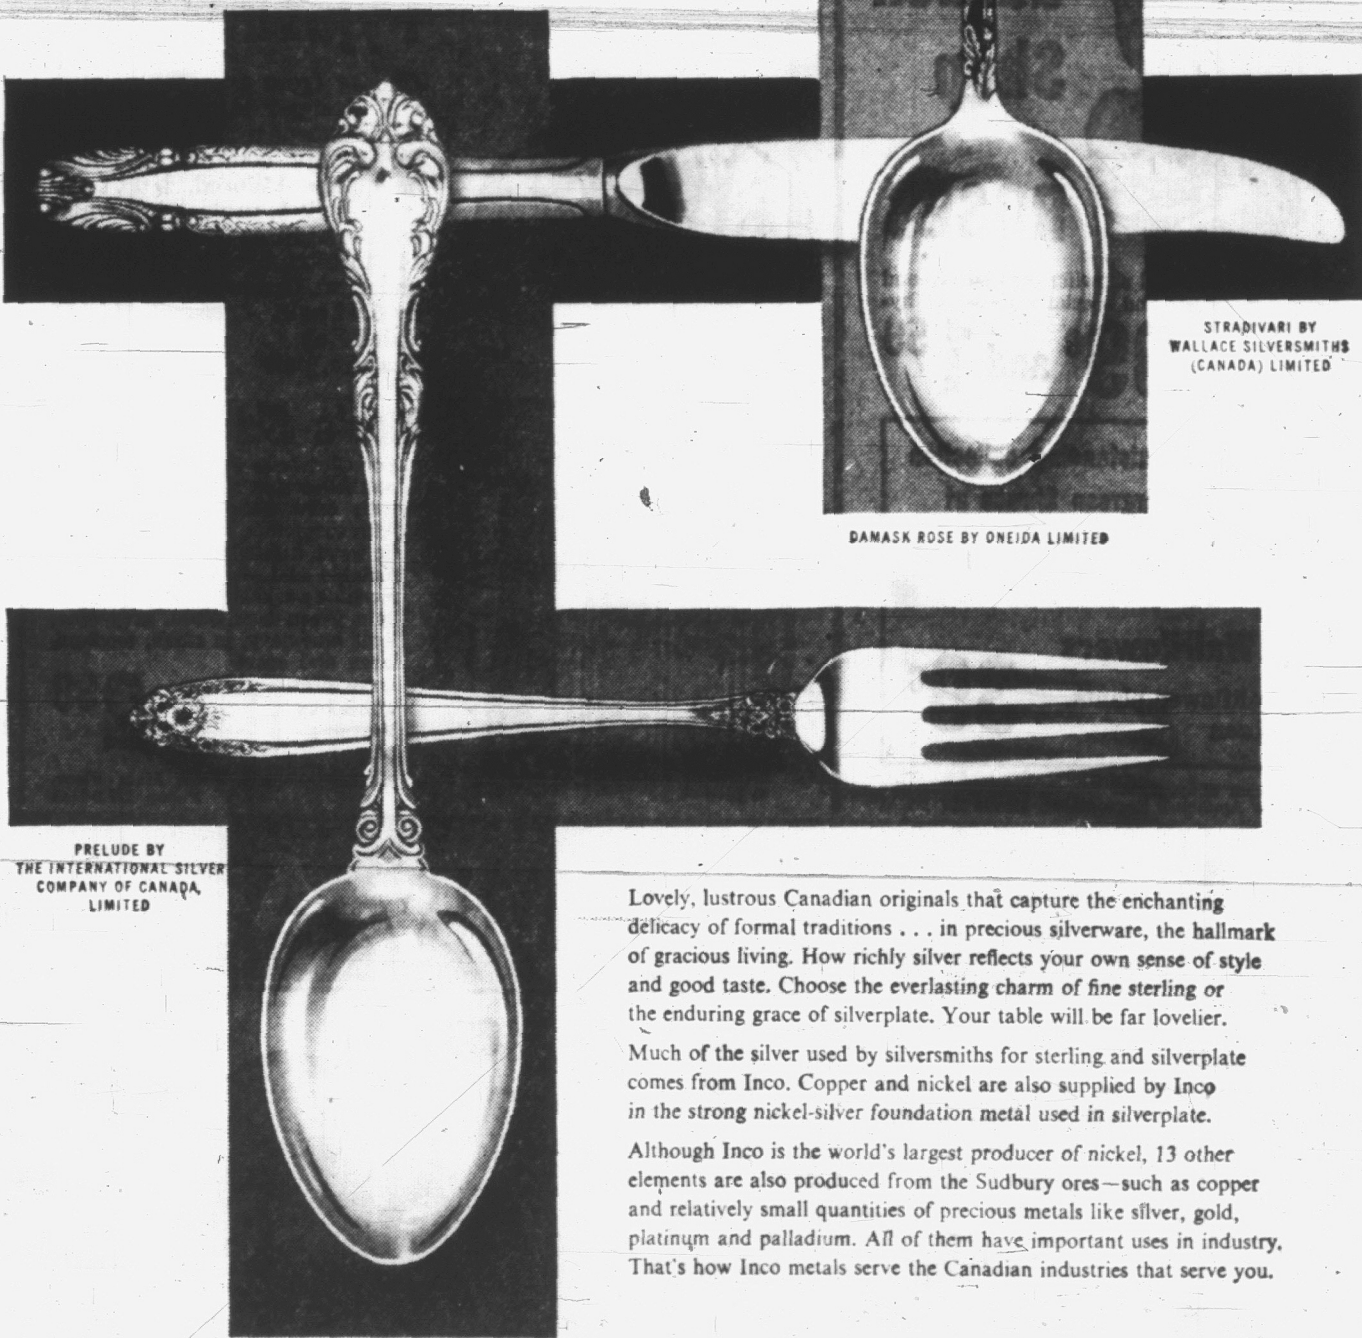

"Formerly the funds for many of these purposes were borrowed directly by the provinces and turned over to the agency or board, now the counterpart borrowing carries a government guarantee and has no effect on provincial debt."

Are They Horsing With Nags' Names?

OTTAWA (CPI)—What's in a horse's name?

Nothing, says William Morrissey, Toronto, thoroughbred breeder, who owns six race horses with the unusual names of Hot Ice Stole The Ring, Red Nose Clown, Irene's Orphan, Rabbit Mouth and Into The Grape.

Plenty, claims the Ontario Racing Commission, which says the names were chosen to cast ridicule on Fred Orpen, retired racing magnate who formerly owned the Long Branch track near Toronto.

That is the background of a case brought before the Supreme Court of Canada last week by Morrissey and Christina Blanche Armstrong, Miss Armstrong, leases the horses from their joint company and races them in Ontario.

"The racing commission in May, 1957, ordered Morrissey to rename the horses or face a commission order that would bar the horses from racing on Ontario tracks and, consequently, elsewhere in Canada and the United States."

Morrissey and Miss Armstrong obtained an Ontario Supreme Court writ prohibiting the racing commission from carrying out its threat to bar the horses. The Ontario Court of Appeal quashed the writ and now the race owners are asking the Supreme Court of Canada to restore it.

During the court proceedings, which started in June, 1957, the horses have continued to race at various meets.

Arthur Maloney, counsel for Morrissey, and Miss Armstrong argued in court Wednesday that the racing commission has no power to bar the horses because of their names, or to order a renaming, which would involve getting permission of the New York Jockey Club, central registry of thoroughbreds foaled in Canada and the United States.

Mr. Maloney, Progressive Conservative Commons member for Toronto Parkdale, said there was no evidence Morrissey sought to ridicule Orpen—the two had a feud in 1946—and an affidavit signed by Morrissey denied any intent to do so.

But R. N. Starr, counsel for the racing commission, told the court "all you need to do is look at a photo of Orpen and see why he got the name 'Rabbit Mouth'."

"What about Red Nose Clown?" asked Mr. Justice Robert Taschereau, presiding judge of the five-member panel hearing the appeal.

"Same thing," said Mr. Starr. "The others are the same and one is wicked—Irene's Orphan."

Mr. Starr referred to an affidavit signed by Mona H. Rundle, secretary treasurer of the racing commission, which said Orpen has a daughter named Irene, that she has a child, was divorced and later remarried.

Miss Rundle's affidavit contained an exhibit quoting a story in the Toronto Telegram, July 9, saying that in 1946 Morrissey and Orpen had a feud over the weights assigned two of Morrissey's horses in a race, but that they came first and second anyway.

Again in 1946, Orpen had organized the Diamond Ring stakes and announced a special race the same day called the Silver Knife. Track followers concluded this was a play on the phrase "knife in the back."

"Casa Camara (Morrissey's horse) won the Diamond Ring in a romp, but Morrissey left Orpen holding the ring by not appearing at Orpen's presentation stand to accept it."

Mr. Maloney pointed out that the newspaper story quoted Orpen as saying "these names (Hot Ice Stole the Ring and the others) mean nothing to me."

He said that if Morrissey had changed his horses' names it would have depreciated their value and failure to do so would have meant loss of his livelihood from the horses' winnings.

POLICE FIND NO TRACE OF MISSING U.S. JUDGE

CHICAGO (UPI)—Police were without a solid lead today as they tried to find some trace of Judge W. Lynn Parkinson of the U.S. Court of Appeals, missing more than two days.

A door-to-door search of the near north side neighborhood in which the judge was last seen Monday turned up nothing to indicate the whereabouts of the distinguished Hoosier jurist.

Detectives questioned dozens of persons, stopping at gift stores, barber shops, restaurants and cocktail lounges where Parkinson might have stopped.

The Lake Michigan shoreline nearby was also searched but no clue was found.

Teachers' Parley 'Off With a Bang'

Vancouver Island Secondary Teachers' annual convention opens here tonight with a bang.

"What Should be Taught in School" will be the topic of a panel discussion open to the public beginning at 8 p.m. in Oak Bay Junior High School auditorium.

A free-wheeling expression of opinion is expected from panel members: Rev. Laura Butler of Metropolitan United Church, Times publisher Stuart Keate, Family and Children's Service director David Woodsworth and Colquitz Junior High School teacher William Cross.

Admission is free and refreshments will follow the debate.

About 1,000 secondary school teachers from all parts of the island will attend lectures, discussions and workshops on various teaching subjects at Victoria High School Friday.

At the same time, another 1,000 elementary school teachers will begin their two-day convention in Sidney.

The annual conventions will give all school children a holiday Friday.

Mine Search Given Up
TONOPAH, Nev. (UPI)—Search was abandoned Wednesday for three men buried 13 days ago by a cave-in at the Silver Peak mine No. 3, about 90 miles west of Tonopah.

Is Judge Crater Buried In Someone's Backyard?

NEW YORK (AP)—Is the long-missing Judge Crater the central figure in one of New York City's most famous disappearance cases, buried in the back yard of a suburban residence?

The city's missing persons bureau has been intrigued with that possibility for about five years, although quietly until now.

The bureau became even more intrigued when a Dutch spiritualist medium, asserted with no knowledge of the case, came up with an identical recitation of clues known only to the police.

Both accounts tend to uphold a theory that the jurist was taken to a home in Yonkers, N.Y., and slain because of trouble over a shady money deal and buried in the vicinity.

Police know the location, which they are withholding to keep away hordes of sightseers but at the moment nothing more can be done.

NO SOLID CLUES

The clues aren't solid enough to obtain court authorization for expensive digging and investigation on the premises. In addition, recent owners have not been anxious to have the place torn asunder without reimbursement.

Writer-investigator Murray Teigh Bloom tells the story of the strange events concerning the Yonkers house in a Harper's magazine article. Police agreed to publication in hopes of somehow getting further clues, and rumors have been doggedly tracked down over the years.

Joseph Force Crater, then 42, was a New York State Supreme Court justice. On the night of Aug. 6, 1930, he left a mid-Manhattan cafe, hailed a taxi and vanished.

MANY THEORIES

Some thought Crater disappeared of his own accord. Others thought he was slain. There were murmurs of the ups between politicians and gangsters, crooked deals and hot money.

In January, 1954, an elderly Bronx butcher, Henry Krauss, asked to see a policeman he had known 25 years. Krauss said he felt he was about to die and had something to get off his chest.

His story was that at the time Crater disappeared Mr. Krauss owned a Yonkers house, seldom used except for party giving by some of his friends and political acquaintances.

One day Krauss went to the house and found the kitchen "filled with blood and broken beer and whisky bottles." Krauss said he was warned later he might be questioned about Crater and to keep mum.

He was led to believe there had been trouble over $90,000 obtained by Crater and others in a crooked deal.

Krauss died a short time later, and officers went to work on his story. Some assertions proved true, others untrue and some couldn't be tested. The investigation came to a standstill.

A peculiar development came not long afterward as a result of Bloom meeting the Dutch medium Gerard Croiset. Bloom, who says he was unaware of the New York police developments, took a photograph of Crater to Croiset after learning the medium had enabled European police to solve several major crimes.

WENT INTO TRANCE

Croiset did not look at the picture but placed his fingers on it as it lay face down, and went into a trance. Bloom recounts that Croiset then said the subject was a judge, and had been kidnapped and murdered 24 or 25 years earlier.

Subsequently, Croiset drew a crude map placing Xs at the kidnapping spot and the slaying site. Although Croiset had never been in New York, the map resembled the outline of Manhattan and three other boroughs of New York City. The first X was in mid-Manhattan. The second indicated the Yonkers location. Croiset said the dead man was buried near the house.

JAPAN TEAM WILL HUNT 'ABOMINABLE SNOWMAN'

TOKYO (UPI) — A six-man Japanese expedition will leave here Nov. 6 for Nepal to search for the "abominable snowman" of the Himalayas.

Its sponsors, the Nippon Educational Mainichi newspapers, the Nippon Educational Television Broadcasting Co., and the Mainichi Television Broadcasting Corp., announced at a news conference Wednesday night, that the expedition will conduct a two-month probe for the snowman along the western slopes of Mt. Everest.

The team will be headed by Dr. Teizo Ogawa, professor of medicine at Tokyo University medical department.

WEST ALLIES AGREE

Pre-Summit Meet Set for Dec. 15

PARIS (Reuters) — The Western summit conference will be held in Paris "about Dec. 15," Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville announced today.

President Eisenhower announced in Washington Wednesday that he and the heads of the British, French and West German governments were set for a meeting in mid-December, but that the place was not settled.

The meeting of the Western Big Four is designed to prepare for a subsequent East-West summit meeting.

Couve de Murville also told the National Assembly foreign affairs commission that Premier Khrushchev will come to Paris during the first three months of 1960.

He would spend "several days" in Paris and "several days" in the French provinces.

Premier Michel Debre has said that the East-West summit conference will take place after this visit, "doubtless during the course of next spring."

AGREE BEFORE SUMMIT

Couve de Murville, who spoke to the commission today for three hours, insisted on the need for agreement among the Western powers before the summit.

Before the end of 1959 France would make "contacts of the same kind" with Italy as would be involved in forthcoming visits to Paris by Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and Chancellor Adenauer.

British officials in London welcomed the decision for a Western summit meeting in Paris in mid-December, although sources conceded that

U.S. Firm Buys Iron From Russia

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A shipment of 370 tons of Russian-made pig iron has been in the Black River yards of the Canadian National Railways here since Sunday, a railroad spokesman says.

The eight carloads of material was shipped here by rail from Montreal, the spokesman said. According to customs records, the consignee is Primary Industries Corporation of New York City.

In Washington Wednesday, Senator Vance Hartke (Dem., Ind.) said he was shocked to learn that pig iron made in Russia had been shipped to the United States during the steel strike. He said the commerce department reported some of it was delivered for $49.25 a ton in Buffalo, compared with $66 a ton for domestic pig iron.

Political observers believe the B.C. Social Credit League's two-day annual convention in Vancouver Friday and Saturday will be a curtain-raiser for a provincial general election late next spring.

Premier Bennett is to keynote the convention with a speech before a public rally at Vancouver's Orpheum Theatre tonight.

Election talk was given another boost today when an official press release from the league referred to the "possibility" of a 1960 general election as a drawing card that will attract more than 400 delegates to the convention.

Hints of some major announcements in the Premier's speech have been drifted out at the Legislative Buildings in the last few days.

IN THE CARDS

In the usual course of events an election next year is in the cards. The present government went to the polls the last time in 1956 and it is traditional for governments in Canada to go to the people at least within four years rather than take their full legal limit of five years. The only governments in modern political history that have taken a full five-year term have been defeated.

In his speech tonight the Premier is expected to outline some of the plans he has for the legislature's session early in the year.

With all the direct debt charges now eliminated he has already hinted at more aid for homeowners' taxes, a stepped-up hospital aid and construction program, and possibly more welfare benefits.

94 RESOLUTIONS

The convention starts at 10 a.m. Friday. There are 94 resolutions submitted by 42 local groups. Election of league president and three vice-presidents must be held.

Special guests are Alberta Minister of Municipal Affairs H. A. Hooke and Orvis Kennedy, president of the Alberta Social Credit League.

Today, 100 women delegates of Socred auxiliaries were meeting at a one-day convention. They were to be addressed by Labor Minister Lyle Wicks. Mr. Wicks and other cabinet ministers will address the convention Friday afternoon.

$240 Million For Rocket?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dr. Werner von Braun said today he wants $240,000,000 for the Saturn super rocket program next year—$100,000,000 more than the defence department has recommended.

This would be nearly three and a half times the $70,000,000 appropriated by Congress for the Saturn which is to pack more than twice the power of the biggest rocket fired by the Russians thus far.

ARMY CANCELS LACROSSE MISSILE PLAN

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian army has pigeon-holed plans to acquire the American Lacrosse surface-to-surface guided missile, it was learned today.

One informant said the army probably will never order the weapon.

The Lacrosse would have provided the atomic punch for the Canadian Infantry Brigade group in Europe. It delivers atomic or conventional warhead.

No reason was immediately given for the army's suspension of its plans to acquire the Lacrosse, which would have been its first missile.

Invitation To Adenauer

BERLIN (Reuters) — Walter Ulbricht, East German Communist party leader, today invited West German chancellor Konrad Adenauer to visit East Germany.

Ulbricht was speaking on the fourth day of the East German trade union federation congress.

At the same time as Adenauer visited East Germany, he suggested, East German premier Otto Grotewohl could visit West Germany.

'Same Old Soviet Talk'

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — Nationalist China said today Russia's position on inspection and control of disarmament is the same as it has been for 14 years of talks which have resulted only in deadlock.

Dr. H. R. Wei, veteran Chinese expert on disarmament and nuclear questions, expressed doubt about Russia's intentions despite the sponsorship by all 82 members of the United Nations of a resolution which would send all arms reduction plans to next year's 10-power Geneva talks without endorsing any.

Death Toll Passes 400 In Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A radio message from the state of Colima today said at least 300 persons are reported to have died as a result of hurricane and flood in the town of Minatitlan.

The message, picked up here by an amateur radio reporter, was addressed to Mexico's president by Dr. Rafael Chavez Carillo, brother of Colima's governor. Minatitlan is an inland city of about 10,000 population.

Added to those who lost their lives in west coast regions of Colima and Jalisco states, counted earlier at nearly 100, the loss of life assumes the proportions of one of this country's worst natural disasters of modern times.

In Tecoman, 12 miles from the coast, 16 persons were reported dead and 4,000 homeless.

The radio message pleaded for food and medicine, but the region still is cut off from land transportation, air fields are flooded and the only present means of communication is radio. Some emergency fields were in limited use by planes.

Air rescue operations continued around the clock today in an effort to reach hundreds of families driven from their homes by rain-swollen rivers that jumped their banks and poured through dozens of small villages.

RELIEF CUT OFF

The rivers knocked out communications and flooded roads, hindering the movement of military convoys carrying food, medicine and clothing.

President Adolfo Lopez Mateos took personal charge of relief operations.

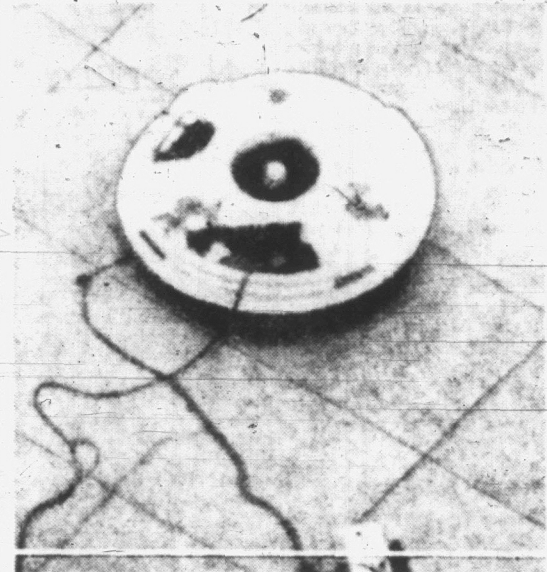

The Pacific port of Manzanillo, which took the full force of the hurricane, reported 80 known fatalities. At least 100 residents were reported missing and 500 injured.

Four small Mexican freighters were reported sunk at Manzanillo. There also was a report indicating that the 800-ton freighter Sinaloa, which left Manzanillo Monday for Acapulco, had gone down at sea. The report said 12 men were rescued but 17 still were missing.

18 ABOARD CRASHED AIRLINER

ATHENS (Reuters) — A Greek airliner with 18 persons aboard crashed today near Tanagra, north of Athens.

First reports said police had found wreckage of the plane. Unconfirmed reports said there were no survivors.

Cameraman Snaps 'Flying Saucer'

TORONTO (CP) — The CBC Wednesday broadcast pictures of what it said was A. V. Roe's revolutionary "flying saucer" being developed for the United States Army.

The pictures, taken from a banking aircraft, showed a bright-colored, disc-shaped vehicle with what appeared to be a driver's seat in the center. It was attached to a long cable or rope.

The pictures were taken by Jack Judges, flying free-lance photographer who snapped them as the machine lay on the ground inside Avro property at suburban Malton, CBC reporter Earl Garrety flew with Judges.

He described the machine as "attached to a long cable or rope. Its surface appeared made of aluminum." Sir Roy Dobson, chairman of the board of Roe, and other high company officials, said they had no comment on the filming.

Old Shed Yields Fortune in Art

LONDON (AP) — Five grimy-covered paintings found in a ramshackle shed in Ireland were declared today to be old masters worth more than $500,000.

The paintings, said London art expert David Carritt, are by the 18th-century artist Francesco Guardi. Carritt and Geoffrey Merton, son of the treasurer of the Royal Art Society and brother of artist John Merton, called the canvases one of the greatest artistic finds of the century.

"I would estimate," said Carritt, "that these pictures sold together might fetch more than $500,000."

But Carritt thinks it's impossible to assess their value adequately as "nothing comparable with them has ever been on the market."

"They had apparently been brought from an Irish mansion, where they had been taken at the beginning of the 19th century by a nobleman newly returned from a tour of the continent," Carritt said.

The pictures were painstakingly stripped of two centuries of varnish and restored.

Guardi, who lived from 1712 to 1793, excelled at Venetian paintings. The five discovered in Dublin are believed to be illustrations of the 16th-century Italian epic poem by Torquato Tasso, Jerusalem Liberated.

'Definite Plan' Says Scurrah

A new $1,000,000 RCMP provincial headquarters building will be built in Victoria.

Mayor Percy Scurrah today said he learned that "a definite commitment has been made" to build the headquarters on the waterfront just inside the Victoria-Esquimalt border.

This would put it in the area of the former Sea Cadet headquarters site on Robey Street.

The mayor was back at his office today after leading a delegation to Ottawa which went the rounds of cabinet ministers and senior officials in an effort to get a $3,000,000 ship contract awarded to west coast yards.

COMMITMENT MADE

"We have it on good authority that the RCMP provincial headquarters project definitely is going ahead and is in the process of being finalized."

"Those headquarters buildings all run in the neighborhood of $1,000,000 in cost."

"I don't know when construction will begin—but I know a definite commitment has been made and the plans are being finalized."

FORCED TO MOVE

The building has been sold and the RCMP lease expires soon.

Also forced to move is the RCMP Victoria detachment, located in a building opposite Christ Church Cathedral that will be demolished to form part of the site of the provincial government's proposed new Court House.

B.C. RCMP chief, Supt. B.C. Macdonell, could not be located for comment. A local real estate firm engaged to survey possible sites for a new building declined comment.

Mayor Scurrah said both the provincial command and the Victoria detachment would be housed in the new building.

The waterfront location also raises the possibility that the force's patrol boats will be based at the new headquarters instead of in Esquimalt harbor.

CO-OPERATIVE NUCLEAR TESTS BRITAIN PLAN

CBRT Wins Votes Of Coast Seamen

OTTAWA (CP).—The Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers (CLC) said today it has won eight new certification votes among employees of west coast shipping companies.

Brotherhood headquarters said the rival Seafarers' International Union (Ind.) had a majority in two companies but that one of these votes will be appealed by the brotherhood.

Results from one company, following a vote count at Vancouver Wednesday, had not been received here today.

Overall score as received here: Brotherhood, 214; Seafarers, 91.

HEAVY MAJORITIES

Results as received at brotherhood headquarters showed these votes favoring that union:

Island Tug and Barge Limited, 50 to 10; Canadian Tugboat Company, 22 to 3; Motor Vessel Mogul of Griffiths Steamship Company, 8 to 0; Vancouver Tugboat Company, 49 to 20; F. M. Yorke and Son, 7 to 1; Great West Towing and Salvage Limited, 10 to 2; Gilbey Brothers Limited, 28 to 2; Bute Towing Limited, 2 to 0.

SIU majorities:

Gulf of Georgia Towing Company, 15 to 8; Straits Towing Limited, 38 to 80.

Straits Towing operates tugs and barges. Previously each division had been listed as a separate company for the vote, which would have made a total of 12 in all.

The 11th company, from which no returns had been received here today, was Pacific Tanker Company.

HAD BEEN AGENT

Most of the companies operate tugs, barges and scows, and the SIU has been bargaining agent in them. It opposed the brotherhood's certifications recently before the Canada Labor Relations Board here.

A brotherhood spokesman said the vote in Straits Towing Limited will be appealed before the board on the contention that brotherhood members had, in effect, been fired by the company during the coast woodworkers strike.

Labor Backs Civil Servants

VANCOUVER (CP).—Pat O'Neal, secretary of the 120,000-member British Columbia Federation of Labor (CLC), said Monday the federation is solidly behind federal civil servants in their dispute with the government.

He was commenting on a statement on a resolution passed by the Vancouver Postal Employees Association saying the association would seek the backing of organized labor.

"We will give them any aid we can in placing their cause before the public," said Mr. O'Neal.

'Ice Bomb' On Farm

MARTIN, Ga. (AP).—A farmer reported that a 50-pound chunk of ice with a "loud whistling noise" plummeted to earth from a clear sky Wednesday, barely missing him. C. T. IN ALBERTA OIL SANDS

Canada A-Blast May Be Allowed

WASHINGTON (CP).—Canada may still get the opportunity to explode an atomic bomb to free oil from Alberta's Athabasca oil sands.

U.S. authorities said Wednesday Russia has agreed to drop its objections to the peaceful use of nuclear explosives in any new agreement to extend the current nuclear test ban.

This indication was conveyed to John A. McCone, chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, who just returned from a tour of Russian atomic energy plants and laboratories.

Officials said details of the new provision would be worked out after major issues had been resolved at current Geneva test-ban talks. Generally, the Russians would demand they be allowed one peaceful explosion for each one made by the West and that each application be approved by a proposed international control commission.

The Canadian atomic blast, scheduled for next February or March was called off last Sept. 30 on grounds that such an explosion might revive the East-West cold war in view of the temporary ban on atomic explosions.

Richfield Oil Corporation of Los Angeles had intended to set off the blast in a 17,000-acre field about 175 miles northeast of Edmonton. This field is believed to contain 300,000,000 barrels of retrievable oil.

Fluoride Vote Urged This Year

Victoria - Esquimalt health board Wednesday urged Greater Victoria municipalities to hold referendum votes on fluoridation of the water supply this December.

Oak Bay council already has scheduled a vote for its residents on the question. Esquimalt council has rejected the proposal.

The health board action reversed its previous recommendation that the vote be delayed for one year.

Board members said that the volume of discussion on the issue has grown in the interval and most persons should be thoroughly familiar with the question.

NO HARM

Ald. M. H. Mooney said a meeting of dentists and elected officials last week arranged by the board had brought out the facts "that fluoridation will benefit all the people, not just children and it will not harm anyone."

Both Ald. Mooney and board chairman R. H. Reeve expressed regret that Esquimalt councillor G. K. Sammon was not present to outline Esquimalt council's reasons for shelving the vote proposal.

It was Coun. Sammon who originally proposed that referendums be held this year and then led the decision to recommend a postponement.

Mr. Reeve pointed out the vote should be scheduled for a mayoralty year in order to benefit from the usually larger turnout of voters.

RAPID SWITCHES

Ald. D. J. Proudfoot said the people should be allowed to "I can't understand these decide the question."

very rapid switches around election time," he said. "Let's be counted as being for it or against it instead of shelving it."

Before the formal decision, to recommend a vote this year was taken, Mr. Reeve contacted Coun. Sammon by phone.

He reported that Coun. Sammon said he was in favor of fluoridation but that Esquimalt council was unanimous that there was not enough time to acquaint the public with the issue before December to warrant a vote this year.

HEART ATTACK STRIKES IN MID-PACIFIC

Desperate Run Saves Man's Life

A ship's carpenter is recovering in hospital at Vancouver today after a 10-day struggle by his captain and crew to keep him alive after a heart attack.

Noralf Jorgensen, 47, suffered the attack while the Norwegian freighter Simao, now docked at Crofton, was plowing through heavy seas in the middle of the Pacific Ocean. There was no doctor aboard.

"I've been through emergencies at sea before, but nothing like this one," said Captain Trygve Magdahl, 40, a veteran of 28 years at sea.

"We were in a gale and a man was dying. I was called to Jorgensen's cabin and saw he was very low."

"His pulse was very low—about 45. He was suffering terrible, terrible pains. I was sure he was dying."

"We were in the middle of the ocean. I put through an emergency call to a San Francisco hospital asking for advice... a doctor told me to give him morphine and oxygen."

"The whole crew worked to save his life. We put a 24-hour watch on him... those first three or four hours looked like he would die."

Capt. Magdahl said he wired for help from any ship with a doctor aboard near the Simao. An American passenger ship 200 miles away was the nearest but the doctor said it would be extremely dangerous to move Jorgensen in the rough seas.

"I thought of going off course to Alaska, but the weather was so bad I decided the wisest thing was to continue to Vancouver."

"The next day, after two shots of morphine, he seemed a little better but was still very poor. We had run out of oxygen—all we had was a little we decided to save in case he had another attack."

Capt. Magdahl said Jorgensen's condition improved slowly as the 43-man crew took turns watching him and ventilating his cabin as much as possible.

The carpenter was taken by ambulance to hospital when the Simao docked at Vancouver Tuesday.

The hospital said today he is in fair condition.

Tory 'Outsider' Murison Sought To Run in City

Municipal Crusade In Legislature?

Leader of a fight for reform in provincial-municipal fiscal arrangements in B.C. C. A. P. Murison, former reeve of North Cowichan, has been proposed as a Conservative election candidate in Victoria riding, it was learned today.

His election, if he were successful, would give him opportunity to carry his crusade for the municipalities to the floor of the B.C. Legislature.

Although Mr. Murison was attending a meeting at Vancouver today and could not be contacted, the report was confirmed here by a reliable source.

Mr. Murison, who last year stepped down as reeve of North Cowichan, is the only man to have held office as president of the Union of B.C. Municipalities for two consecutive terms. It was in this capacity that he led the battle for greater provincial recognition of municipal problems.

He achieved province-wide publicity for his continued attempts to win cabinet consideration of a new method of sharing provincial and municipal responsibilities to the people.

Basically, the proposal he put forward on behalf of a UBCM committee called for the province to accept financial responsibility for services to people—education, health and welfare for instance—and for the municipalities to take over the cost of water supply, sewers, roads, lighting and protective services.

It is understood Victoria Conservatives bank heavily on support for Mr. Murison from municipal officials as well as sections of the electorate who are concerned with the rise in cost of municipal government in recent years.

PRESTIGE CANDIDATE He would also bring the prestige of an honored name to the hustings. Charles Alexander Phipps Murison, CBE, MC, retired major-general, is a "gentleman farmer" who lives near Duncan. He is known for his community service with cancer campaigns and the Red Cross. He is a past president of the Red Cross at Duncan and a director of the B.C. Cancer Foundation.

A career soldier until his retirement, he was commissioned into the British army directly from McGill University. He was born in Canada at Grenfell, Sask., Oct. 7, 1894.

Earlier it was rumored that B.C. finance minister in the wartime coalition government Herbert Anscomb, would be named as a main candidate for Victoria Conservatives.

Party officials here, who refused today either to confirm or deny the report Mr. Murison will run, have yet to set a date for their nominating convention, but it is certain all three Victoria seats will be contested.

Two sons of a former marriage survive: Hugh Connolly of Vancouver and Thomas O. Connolly of Ross River, Yukon Territory.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at Hayward's. Following cremation, interment will take place in Prince Albert.

NAME FOUND

Trademark First Clue To Wreck

First solid clue to the identity of a ship sunk off the west coast of Vancouver Island many years ago was unearthed by navy investigators today.

Removal of a thick layer of marine growth from the ship's windlass revealed the name of the maker: Tysac Dobinson & Co.

The windlass and other items of wreckage were recovered by navy divers at Sydney Inlet, south of Nootka Sound, and are now at the RCN's Seaward Defence Base at Esquimalt Harbor.

Various theories about the age and identity of the ship have been advanced, ranging from more than 200 years to 100.

It was at first thought the ship was HMS Condor, which foundered in 1901. It is not yet known whether it was of British, American or other construction, but an anchor recovered from the wreck does not appear to be British.

Final Tributes Paid Daughter Of Titled Family

Funeral services were held today at 2:15 p.m. for Mrs. Gladys Gage McCormack, 1725 Beach Drive, who died at home Sunday. She was 68.

Widow of the late Col. Carson McCormack and daughter of the late Sir James and Lady Gage of Toronto, Ont., she was born in Ontario and lived in Victoria for 10 years.

She is survived by three daughters: Mrs. Davidina Gadsby and Mrs. Mary Ketterer of Victoria, and Mrs. Mazo Ireland of Sydney, Australia.

The service was conducted by Rev. A. I. Higgins in Chaplin's Funeral Chapel and interment will be in the family mausoleum, Mount Pleasant Cemetery, Toronto, Ont.

... HERE AND THERE ...

With NORMAN CRIBBENS

Christmas seems to come earlier every year.

Already... two local inquiries about recording Christmas greetings. Already, an orange-colored folder depicting the joys of Christmas in California—and a program of Yuletide events at Ye Olde Empress Hotel.

Now a Christmas card posted in England on Oct. 10, and a letter from a magazine editor telling me the deadline for his Christmas issue was Sept. 5!

Back in England after two years in Victoria, Mrs. Chris Phillips, of 1168 Rhoda Lane, complained of feeling "shut in" by the crowds and the traffic.

She had intended spending Christmas with her parents, but after six weeks of looking up friends and relations, flew back to Victoria this week.

"I loved it over there," she says, "yet it's wonderful to be back. Victoria seems almost empty compared with the English cities. You have room to turn round."

A number of Scottish readers have assured me that part of Edinburgh Castle does belong to Canada—or rather Nova Scotia.

It seems that King James the First of England and Scotland sold some baronies to Nova Scotia settlers way back in the 17th century, but didn't want to make the stormy trip across the Atlantic.

So he decreed that part of the esplanade at Edinburgh Castle should be Nova Scotia territory. Thus the king was able to stand on Nova Scotia "soil" while creating the new barons.

For this information I am indebted to Lieut. W. G. Duncan, Malcolm McCaig, Mrs. W. E. McMurtrie, Harry Wood (a former president of the Dickens Fellowship in Victoria), and others.

When the director of a big New Zealand newspaper came to Victoria, I thought: "Now here is a man who will have something to say to the press."

Quite wrong.

"No thanks, old man," he said. "I don't want any of that newspaper stuff. I'm here for a holiday."

"What do you think of Victoria as a holiday resort?"

"That's just the point," he replied. "I'm not thinking and I don't want to be interviewed. Good night, old man!"

CRUELTY MARS HALLOWEEN

Heartless children are blamed for the first act of cruelty involving firecrackers and an animal reported to the SPCA this Halloween season.

Inspector Clifford Ladd of Victoria SPCA said a group of children taped a firecracker to the back of a small white cat and touched it off in the North Douglas area Wednesday night.

"But you know how it is with children. How can we catch them?" he said. An investigation is being made, however.

ON HIS WAY HOME from hospital today after twice cheating death in highway crashes, Chris Morgan, 22, of 406 Quebec, says he does not want to buy his own car. Riding with friends is hazardous enough. He was one of three to survive when two cars crashed early Sunday near Mill Bay, killing both drivers. Three months ago, Morgan escaped a crash which killed a friend who drove a borrowed sports car off the Sooke Road. (Times photo by Strickland.)

Motel Being Built In City May Be $1 Million Project

A 48-unit motel is being built in Victoria and a larger drive-in hotel may also be constructed by the same firm, an American hotel chain.

The spokesman said he couldn't say whether or not a 100-unit drive-in hotel will be built in the downtown area.

The two projects are said to cost about $1,000,000.

According to reports work on the hotel is scheduled to start in December with completion targeted for next May.

The hotel is said to include a 100-seat restaurant and Hawaiian lounge overlooking a heated swimming pool.

Spectacular Crash At 'Bad' Crossing

A stop sign post and wooden fence pickets scattered like tennpins when they were bowled over by two cars out of control from a collision at Richmond and Leighton at 10:50 a.m.

Both drivers escaped with only shaking up, but were taken to hospital for check-ups.

Neighbors said the intersection is "a bad one," the scene of numerous crashes and a few years ago resulted in a traffic death.

Police identified the drivers as 76-year-old James Braidwood, 902 Foul Bay, who drove west on Leighton, and H. N. McIntyre, 44, of 941 Lawndale, whose car was going south on Richmond.

HIS FIRST MISHAP

"I couldn't believe it when this car came out and we hit," said McIntyre, a chief petty officer in the RCN who has never had a traffic accident until today.

His car was bounced up onto the sidewalk and the older driver's car glanced off and continued going over sidewalk, boulevard, picket fence and lawn at the home of Mrs. Leigh Large, 1624 Richmond.

It left deep tire marks in the grass and scattered broken pickets and car parts over the yard before it stopped against a tree about

Montrealer Admits Phony Cheque Guilt

A Montreal man pleaded guilty to 20 charges connected with counterfeit travellers' cheques in Vancouver Wednesday as police expressed fears that thousands of bogus $50 cheques may have been passed in cities throughout western Canada.

Thomas Francis Berrigan, 34, was remanded to Friday for sentence after he pleaded guilty to dealing, attempting to deal, and uttering counterfeit travellers' cheques.

It has not been ascertained if Berrigan was responsible for passing forged cheques in Victoria and Nanaimo. There were unofficial reports that phony cheques had been passed in the two cities for a total of $10,000.

BANKS ON WATCH

Police said he was arrested Friday after a man attempted to pass six travellers' cheques at a Vancouver bank.

Detectives earlier had been told to watch for a man who fled from a bank in suburban Burnaby when a clerk became suspicious because one of the cheques in his book was not signed.

Police said 150 counterfeit cheques bearing the same serial number and described as "almost perfect forgeries" have since been reported in Edmonton. Police in Winnipeg seized 90 and RCMP in Nanaimo have seized 10.

Fraud detectives said the cheques, made with a copy machine and drawn on the Bank of Nova Scotia at St. Catharines and Peel in Montreal, are recognizable as phony only because they lack watermarks.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Owner of a car involved in a two-car collision at Humboldt and Douglas, Saturday, was incorrectly identified as driver at the time. The car, operated by Ben Grossman, 507 Simcoe, was unoccupied and parked at a meter when an auto driven by Frank Dobie, 3795 Duke, backed into it, causing an estimated $600 damage and giving his passenger Mrs. Dobie a hand cut.

Greater Victoria Community Chest moved closer towards its $325,000 objective today with a total of just over $210,000.

Capital Improvement District Commission chairman J. Everett Brown today declined comment on rumors that a $40,000 improvement of Douglas between Battery and Superior will be recommended to the cabinet.

The CIDC met Tuesday afternoon. Among proposals advanced by city delegate was the Douglas Street project, rejected four times before by the government.

Mr. Brown said the commission would make its recommendations to the provincial cabinet next week.

Mayor Percy Scurrell today presented a commemorative plaque to round-the-world yachtsman John Guzzwell for "a wonderful feat of seamanship, courage and stamina."

The bronze plaque, mounted on a teak base, will be fastened to the cabin of the 23-foot sloop Trekká in which he sailed single-handed around the globe in four years. The wood could be found only in the shop in which he is a woodworker.

The young seaman actually prepared the teak base without knowing who it was for, the mayor revealed.

He will leave for Australia Sunday to be married and plans to return here next year.

No reason was immediately given for the army's suspension of its plans to acquire the Lacrosse, which would have been its first missile.

'Same Old

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — Nationalist China said today Russia's position on inspection and control of disarmament is the same as it has been for 14 years of talks which have resulted only in deadlock.

Dr. H. R. BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A shipment of 370 tons of Russian-made pig iron has been in the Black River yards of the Canadian National Railway here since Sunday, a railroad spokesman says.

The eight carloads of material was shipped here by rail from Montreal, the spokesman said. According to customs records, the consignee is Primary Industries Corporation of New York City.

In Washington Wednesday, Senator Vance Hartke (Dem. Ind.) said he was shocked to learn that pig iron made in Russia had been shipped to the United States during the steel strike. He said the commerce department reported some of it was delivered for $49.25 a ton in Buffalo, compared with $66 a ton for domestic pig iron.

Spring Election Hint
As Socred Rally Opens

Political observers believe the B.C. Social Credit League's two-day annual convention in Vancouver Friday and Saturday will be a curtain-raiser for a provincial general election late next spring.

Premier Bennett is to keynote the convention with a speech before a public rally at Vancouver's Orpheum Theatre tonight.

Election talk was given another boost today when an official press release from the league referred to the "possibility" of a 1960 general election as a drawing card that will attract more than 400 delegates to the convention.

Cameraman Snaps
'Flying Saucer'

TORONTO (CP) — The CBC Wednesday broadcast pictures of what it said was A. V. Roe's revolutionary "flying saucer" being developed for the United States Army.

The pictures, taken from a banking aircraft, showed a bright, colored, disc-shaped vehicle with what appeared to be a driver's seat in the center. It was attached to a long cable or rope.

The pictures were taken by Jack Judges, flying free-lance photographer who snapped them as the machine lay on the ground inside Avro property at suburban Malton. CBC reporter Earl Garrety flew with Judges.

He described the machine as "attached to a long cable or rope. Its surface appeared made of aluminum." Sir Roy Dobson, chairman of the board of Roe, and other high company officials, said they had no comment on the filming.

'Definite Plan'
Reports Scurrah

A new $1,000,000 RCMP provincial headquarters building will be built in Victoria.

Mayor Percy Scurrell today said he learned that "a definite commitment has been made" to build the headquarters on the waterfront just inside the Victoria-Esquimalt border.

Proposed site is at the foot of Barnard Avenue, the border between the two municipalities.

The mayor was back at his office today after leading a delegation to Ottawa which went the rounds of cabinet ministers and senior officials in an effort to get a $3,000,000 ship contract awarded to west coast yards.

COMMITMENT MADE
"We have it on good authority that the RCMP provincial headquarters project definitely is going ahead and is in the process of being finalized."

"Those headquarters buildings all run in the neighborhood of $1,000,000 in cost."

"I don't know when construction will begin but I know a definite commitment has been made and the plans are being finalized."

FORCED TO MOVE

The building has been sold and the RCMP lease expires soon.

The provincial headquarters command and the Victoria subdivision head quarters, which supervise Vancouver Island RCMP operations, will occupy the new building.

But the Victoria detachment, now located on a building opposite Christ Church Cathedral, will be moved into the proposed new Court House when its present location is demolished.

The new headquarters establishment will include a dock for RCMP patrol boat and sea-plane use but the force's maritime command will remain based in Esquimalt harbor.

RCMP Supt. B. C. Macdonell, head of "E" division, said Mayor Scurrell's information was "well founded but no official notification of acceptance of the terms for the property has yet been received from Ottawa."

In Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A radio message from the state of Colima today said at least 300 persons are reported to have died as a result of hurricane and flood in the town of Minatitlan.

The message, picked up here by an amateur radio reporter, was addressed to Mexico's president by Dr. Rafael Chavez Carillo, brother of Colima's governor. Minatitlan is an inland city of about 10,000 population.

Added to those who lost their lives in west coast regions of Colima and Jalisco states, counted earlier at nearly 100, the loss of life assumes the proportions of one of this country's worst natural disasters of modern times.

In Tecoman, 12 miles from the coast, 16 persons were reported dead and 4,000 homeless.

The radio message pleaded for food and medicine, but the region still is cut off from land transportation, air fields are flooded and the only present means of communication is radio. Some emergency fields were in limited use by planes.

Air rescue operations continued around the clock today in an effort to reach hundreds of families driven from their homes by rain-swollen rivers that jumped their banks and poured through dozens of small villages.

RELIEF CUT OFF

The rivers knocked out communications and flooded roads, hindering the movement of military convoys carrying food, medicine and clothing.

President Adolfo Lopez Mateos took personal charge of relief operations.

The Pacific port of Manzanillo, which took the full force of the hurricane, reported 80 known fatalities. At least 100 residents were reported missing and 500 injured.

Four small Mexican freighters were reported sunk at Manzanillo. There also was a report indicating that the 800-ton freighter Sinaloa, which left Manzanillo Monday for Acapulco, had gone down at sea.
